Public Letter of Clark Howell Termed Splendid Analysis of Prevailing Economic Conditions in United States.

NEW CONFIDENCE PROBABLE RESULT

Cannot Fail To Encourage Renewed Faith, Asserts Ben S. Read; Constructive, Says Palmer.

Immediate and hearty reiteration of agreement among Atlanta business men, civic officials, educators and others followed publication Monday of a letter from Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, analyzing the consensus of America's leading newspapermen regarding the economic situation. Mr. Howell is still in the east.

In letters to The Constitution commenting upon the full-page message written by Mr. Howell while in New York attending a national press meeting, a remarkable concurrence in the opinions expressed in the communication was evident. In virtually every instance local executives who are in a position to take the pulse of the economic situation agreed that the next move will be on an upward curve.

Land Public Movement.

Lauding the initiation of a movement in the press to acquaint the public with the outstanding opinion of the nation's experts concerning the end of the depression, communications from leaders in many local fields of endeavor contained expressions of confidence and optimism as the result of what was termed the first newspaper movement on a large scale to aid in restoring normal conditions locally.

Termining the full-page publicity "The finest piece of constructive work I ever saw in a newspaper," J. F. Allen, president of the Atlanta Hotel Merchants' Association, characterized the letter as "full of common sense and truths that apply to nearly everyone."

"Important Truths"

"The finest piece of constructive work I ever saw in a newspaper—without question the contents are the most important truths uttered since the so-called depression began," said Mr. Allen.

"Mr. Howell's letter was full of common sense and truths that apply to nearly every one—rich and poor alike. If we can get fear and hysteria out of the minds of people, we will soon be on the road to complete economic stability. I do not see how

Policemen Pledge Support to Beavers

Support of the members of the Atlanta police department to Chief James L. Beavers was pledged Monday by approximately 100 policemen who signed a petition to the police committee circulated by Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant.

The petition, intended not as a dictate to the committee but as a declaration of love and admiration of the policemen for the chief, asks that the police committee allow Beavers to remain as chief of the department until he resigns voluntarily.

Chief Beavers is beloved of the department, and members of the force feel it their duty to ask this favor of the committee, the petition says. The committee recently took steps looking toward the supplanting of Beavers with a younger and more vigorous man. Beavers soon will resign and take his pension, according to the petition. The petition is being presented to the watches by Lieutenant Sturdivant.

Florida Prohi Chief Bars Wine Grape Juice

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 19. (AP)—Federal enforcement officers in Florida do not intend to allow grape juice to be sold which may be made into wine.

They arrested S. J. Hall, of Jacksonville, Saturday night, and seized 450 gallons of grape juice stored in a cold storage plant and said several other similar arrests and seizures are to be made in the near future.

S. O. McPherson, dry chief, who led the raid on the storage house and arrested Hall, said they had no intention of trying to stop persons from selling grape juice, but that the law was violated when someone sold grape juice and told the buyer how to make wine from it.

BRITISH MEMBERS BLOCK METHODIST REPORT ON LIQUOR

Rev. C. E. Walters Prevents Separate Pronouncement, Says Other Questions Are Equally Important.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Sensational developments occurred Monday afternoon at a departmental meeting held at the Ponce de Leon Avenue Methodist church when discussions were held regarding temperance education, marriage ideals and unemployment aid.

American delegates sought to introduce a statement regarding prohibition, when Dr. C. E. Walters, prominent British clergyman, opposed such a move for a separate statement.

"Gentlemen, we Britishers sympathize with you in your liquor problem," Mr. Walters said, "but we have come a long way to join you in this great conference and for that the questions of modern marriage and unemployment are equal in the church with prohibition."

Many Matters Considered.

2 WOMEN'S BODIES FOUND IN TRUNKS

Gruesome Crime Bared in Los Angeles Traced to Phoenix, Ariz.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19. (AP)—Disembodied bodies of two women of undetermined age and identity were found in trunks tonight by police at the Southern Pacific railroad station. One of the trunks was large, the other small. They had been shipped yesterday morning from Phoenix, Ariz., police said.

The trunks were consigned to a Los Angeles man whose name the police refused to reveal pending an arrest.

A woman called at the baggage room to claim the trunks, but employees had become suspicious because of a strong odor and refused to yield them. The woman walked away, and it was several hours before the trunks were opened.

One of the slain women apparently was in the early thirties, with dark hair. Her face had been beaten and was unrecognizable. The other, whose body had been hacked into pieces, was younger, apparently about 20 years old, and had red hair. She had been shot and her face also had been crushed as though in a deliberate attempt to prevent identification.

Every street car in Atlanta, Columbus, Rome, Macon and Augusta will carry a half century of Edison's memory for a half century. The funeral will be at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at Glenmont, the Edison estate, with burial in Rosevale cemetery at Orange.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 19. (AP)—For a brief moment at midday today mourners stopped a continuous file past the body of Thomas A. Edison, a minister offered a prayer.

The convocation was uttered by Mrs. Edison's pastor, the Rev. Arthur H. Brown, of the Methodist Episcopal church of Orange, at her request. He repeated it at 5 o'clock and planned to utter it again at 8 a. m., noon and 5 p. m. tomorrow.

Edison's body lay in a bronze casket in a niche of the pine-paneled, high-ceilinged library of his laboratory. Autumn leaves covered the floor. Dr. Brown mentioned in his prayer the name of John Ott, 81, who died

1931 CHEST APPEAL WILL OPEN TODAY

Greatest Need Faced as Workers Prepare for In- dividual Campaign.

Driven by the necessity of raising one of the largest charity budgets in the history of Atlanta in order to avert a tragic winter, workers of the Community Chest this morning will present to Atlanta the plea of the unfortunate and the unemployed for a helping hand.

Final instructions were given the solicitors Monday night at a dinner in the roof garden banquet hall of the Ansley hotel, when John Lord O'Brien, assistant attorney-general of the United States, bade the workers (Goosepe) on their errands of mercy.

The goal is $805,000, of which $465,000 is to go to the chest and $340,000 to an emergency fund for the destitute unemployed. Officials of the chest expressed confidence that in spite of the times the full amount will be raised in time for a victory meeting two weeks hence. The first report meetings are scheduled for 12:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for the individuals division and at 6:15 o'clock tonight for the groups division.

U. S. Is World Benefactor.

Mr. O'Brien expressed a profound respect for energy and hard work. The United States has been the benefactor of the whole civilized world for many years, and has become "America, the merciful," he said, "pointing to the feeding of starving Belgians and Russians, the Kellogg pact, efforts to cause permanent peace, and attempts to establish conditions of justice in the Far East. The Atlanta charity drive is a part and parcel of this work, a noble phase of it, he said.

Edison Gains Instruction Through Mother's Tutoring

(This is the second installment of David Wilson's intensely interesting story of the life of a great yet thoroughly human genius, Thomas Alva Edison February 11, 1847, the son of Samuel Edison, who fled to Milan from Canada after taking the wrong side in the abortive Papineau rebellion of the '50s. The child's mother was a former school teacher, wise in the ways of boys, who earned and kept Thomas' devotion throughout his life.

When Thomas was seven, his family moved to Port Huron, Mich., and the boy, already so inquisitive that his elders dreaded his approach, was subjected briefly to a conventional school of the period.

The official schooling lasted three months. The boy would not study subjects in which he was not interested, and he insisted on asking questions the teacher couldn't answer about the things that did attract him.

The teacher put him down as "addled," and Mrs. Edison, abusing the poor pedagogue roundly for his failure to appreciate her son, took over the teaching job herself.

Perhaps it would be more accurate

Mrs. Eidson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jameson, of Dunwoody.

COUNCIL ADOPTS BUDGET FOR YEAR OF $11,533,654.90

Schools Will Receive $3,539,694.61; Permit of Subway Poolroom, Alleged Crime 'Hangout,' Ordered Revoked.

City council Monday afternoon adopted the October finance sheet providing $11,533,654.90 for all departments for the entire year, and voted to revoke the permit of the Subway poolroom, 612 Decatur street, because it was branded as the "hangout" of the alleged slayers of Ben Lichtenstein.

The October sheet carries about $500,000 more for the schools than the June sheet carried and provides salaries for operation of the city educational system until December 1. Only four members of council, Councilmen J. W. Weaver, James L. Wells, Nelson T. Spruiell and Raymond Curtis, cast their ballots against it.

Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the thirteenth, and Councilman William H. Rogers, member of the police committee, attempted unsuccessfully to prevent council from voting at the session to revoke the poolroom permit. They contended that a public hearing should be allowed operators.

Shotguns and Shackles Banished In Fulton Camp for Boy Convicts

The recent probe of city hall affairs, will be allowed to remain at the South camp and that his duties will be confined to work in the kitchen.

Shotguns and chains will be done away with in guarding Fulton county's first-offense misdemeanor convicts under 20 years of age, C. F. Collier, assistant superintendent of public works and deputy warden of the county, said Monday. The change in the system of guarding will be made in a few days at South camp, where, in the future, prisoners of the above classification will be confined.

The action is part of the program launched through A. A. Clarke Jr., warden after Bennett Hill, the misdemeanor convict, was shot and killed by guards at the North camp when he attempted to escape.

Twenty first offenders under the age of 20 years, all serving time for misdemeanors, Monday were taken to the South camp from the other camps, with ten selected to remain there, forming the personnel of what is to be known as the first offender camp.

Hardened criminals and "repeaters" were transferred to other camps. In the future all prisoners coming under the classification of youthful misdemeanor first offenders will be sent to the South camp.

It was learned that Jack White, former political figure, convicted in Washington Decides To Act Under Anti-War Treaty Only After Protests by Five Powers.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Japan has withdrawn her objection to American participation in the League of Nations' efforts to end the Manchurian strife between her and China.

Prentiss B. Gilbert, United States consul general at Geneva, thus may sit in at the league's council table, to hear Aristide Briand, French "man of peace," offer a proposal today as a basis for Sino-Japanese negotiations.

Better feeling already has been indicated by Tokyo newspapers and attention turned to the Manchurian problem itself, involving Japanese military occupations there for the announced purpose of protecting nationals and property.

In China leaders of the rival Nanking and Canton factions met today for discussion of the Manchurian situation as part of a peace conference.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—Japan now is willing for the United States to sit with the League of Nations council as it tries to solve the Manchurian puzzle.

Understanding more clearly the American position, the Japanese government today withdrew her previous objections. Orders from Tokyo sent Ambassador Deluch to the state department with assurances for Secretary Stimson that Japan no longer would oppose American participation in the league council's sessions.

The objections were withdrawn while the American government was still awaiting formal notification of the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty by five other leading nations.

The action by the powers was taken in an atmosphere of encouragement due to continued absence of reports of automatic gunfire in Manchuria. Hesitant to appear over-hasty in calling attention of China and Japan to obligations under the anti-war treaty, the American government decided to await notification of such action first by others.

The Japanese withdrew opposition to American participation at Geneva after Deluch, at Stimson's request, had explained to Tokyo the exact status of Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul general at Geneva, who is sitting with the league council.

Gilbert's instructions were to participate only in discussions regarding the possible invocation of the anti-

CAPONE GRANTED SENTENCE STAY

Johnny Torio Is Refused Release Pending Check of Testimony.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—More trouble was brewing in the federal building today for "Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader, and his friends.

Capone's sentence on his conviction for violating income tax laws was delayed at least three more days as Federal Judge James H. Wilkeson granted his attorneys until Friday to perfect their arguments for an arrest of judgment.

If this bit of procrastination could be considered as favorable to the gang chief, it was more than offset by word that the government had begun in earnest its attempt to collect the tax Capone tried to evade. The criminal proceeding which resulted in his conviction Saturday night did not alter the government's claim that he owed some $215,000 in tax and whatever can be traced to his ownership may be seized.

Johnny Torio, Capone's friend and predecessor as head man of the city's gangs, went to the United States district attorney's office today and asked to be released from the subpoena that brought him from New York three weeks ago as a government witness. He did not testify for either side during the trial and he said he wanted to go home.

But the government officers said "No," and it was subsequently learned that Torio's grand jury testimony was being checked carefully with the facts brought out in the trial. Another former Chicago gangster who came back under federal persecution and appeared before the grand jury has already been charged with perjury. He is "Two-Gun Louie" Alterie, now a Colorado ranchman, and prosecutors said Torio would undoubtedly

Mercury To Climb After Light Frost

Despite the fact that this morning's minimum temperature is slated to be practically the same as Monday's, when the lowest for the fall season was noted and a light frost was recorded, the mercury is slated to climb today, and by mid-afternoon to be written on the records as "warmer." The lowest temperature Monday was 43 and the maximum 67 degrees. Today's minimum, according to the United States weather bureau, will be 44 degrees, with climbing mercury all the remainder of the day. The day's menu as far as the sky is concerned is to be "clear," it was forecast. The first frost of the winter was seen Saturday and Sunday nights.

face a similar charge if his testimony were found to have been untrue.

From all indications, Capone will be sentenced immediately after his lawyers have gone through the formality of making the arguing motions Friday. Judge Wilkeson stated, soon after the jury had convicted the gang leader Saturday night, that he would deny the motion for arrest of judgment, but he later said the lawyers could argue the point if they desired. "I suppose you will move for a new trial," the court said.

BIG CROWD FILES PAST EDISON BIER

On which he used to rest, the long shelves of books lining the balcony, the scores of photographs and paintings on the walls—all were undisturbed.

Close to the desk at which Mr. Edison had pored over many of his inventions stood the coffin. Over it were sprinkled red oak leaves from the trees on the Llewellyn park estate. Around the room were several vases of chrysanthemums, a few sprays of smilax, and bunches of brightly colored autumn leaves.

Directly above the coffin was a big bronze wall clock, its hands strangely stopped at 3:27 a. m. yesterday, three minutes after the inventor sank from a coma into eternal sleep.

The soft amber radiance of the incandescent lamp—considered by Edison his greatest invention—filled the room.

It was into this setting, so reminiscent of the days when the living Edison's vibrant personality dominated the room, that the employees of the Edison plant were ushered at 8 a. m., two hours after the body had been borne from the home under an escort of motorcycle policemen.

Charles Edison, the inventor's son, was there to receive the men and women of all ages. Some were in their Sunday clothes; others, soon to go on duty, were in overalls. Some led their children through the slowly moving line for a glimpse at the figure under the coffin's glass lid.

At 9 a. m. the public was admitted, and until 6 p. m. the room was filled. A guard of honor—four Edison employees standing with folded arms at each corner of the coffin—was changed every 15 minutes.

Public mourners numbered thousands and they were polyglot. There were bankers in cut-a-ways, school children carrying their books, old persons who wept freely, unemployed in threadbare clothing, Salvation Army corps in uniform, mothers with babies in arms. Some younger employees of the Edison plant who never had seen the inventor filed past the bier two and three times.

In death Mr. Edison appeared serene, showing little of the ravages of his prolonged illness. James Earl Fraser, a sculptor of Westport, Conn., made a death mask of the inventor's face and also an impression of his hands.

"He had a marvelous, powerful face," Fraser said. "The beautiful full forehead, the nose, the mouth, the chin—practically all the great qualities are in that face."

"The hands, too, are wonderful; delicate, sensitive hands and fingertips, yet withal they show great power."

"I was surprised how well he looked. After weeks of illness, I expected to find him emaciated, but he was not so." Plans are to fashion a likeness in bronze or marble from the mask. Fraser is completing a clay figure of Mr. Edison, probably the last made during his lifetime.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Oct. 19.—(AP) Fort Myers will pay homage to its first citizen, Thomas A. Edison, Wednesday at a memorial service to be held on a pier extending over the Caloosahatchee river, on whose banks the inventor resided for nearly 50 winters at his estate, Seminole Lodge.

Plans for the memorial service were announced tonight by the Rev. C. T. Tew, Baptist minister and president of the local ministerial alliance. A memorial service is planned for tomorrow morning at a local hotel under the sponsorship of the local unit of the National Plant, Flower

Atlanta Corporations Assisting In Detail Work of Penny Club

Atlanta corporations are giving the Penny Club the benefit of their organizations in the detail work of the club. The Southern Bell Telephone Company has delegated this work to Miss A. Gillilan.

Miss Gillilan sees that Penny Club collection boxes are distributed to every building. Some idea of the thoroughness of her work may be gained from the fact that in the first 10 days she was instrumental in turning in 14,500 pennies to club headquarters.

One telephone subscriber complained that she had deposited three nickels for call in a booth but had failed to get it. She asked the company to return the coins to her so she could turn them into pennies and give them to the club. The company did, making its co-operation with the club complete.

Mayor Josiah H. Fitch, personal friend to Edison for 20 years, today issued a proclamation calling upon all business establishments to close at the funeral Wednesday and urging local persons to attend the memorial service at the city auditorium.

Every day's mail contains many suggestions for carrying on the work.

"A woman wrote that although dollars had always swayed the imagination of man," said Mrs. Thomas K. Glenn, "the humble penny has come into its own through the Penny Club. This, it seems to me, should give everyone the impulse to become a supporter of the club by making his pennies work in the cause. I want to call attention again to the pledge which is designed for those wishing to pay by the month, or for the five months between October 1 and March 1."

Detroit, Miami and Madisonville, Ky., are the latest places to adopt the Penny Club idea. This makes a total of 25 cities and towns in many sections of the country which have put this plan into operation or are studying it with that aim.

where a British army marched a century and a half ago to lay down its arms to allied American and French forces, a legion of troops tramped today to simulate that historic spectacle while 50,000 spectators looked on.

The scene was played out under cloudless skies with just a flicker of cooling breezes to stir the flags and pennons of the French and American forces to flaming coloring. It took hardly half an hour from the first tuck of drum that heralded the coming of the victorious armies, for the last of the 3,000 men simulating Cornwallis' defeated army to pass off the field.

From start to finish of the pageant there was some from the stands, only the faint notes of the bands and fire corps and the thumping of the drums that timed the marchers. To shorten the spectacle and make way for other pictured events to follow, only the first company of British knelt between silent ranks of the victors to lay their muskets on the earth. The others marched on with their arms.

the city auditorium will be Rev. Gipsy Smith, of England. Mr. Smith is an evangelist of international fame, and has been attending the conference sessions regularly from the start. His message tonight probably will be pertinent to the evangelistic mission of the church in this age.

Prominent in the Monday discussions were appeals for peace, unification of Methodist bodies, maintaining marriage sanctity, moral purification and prohibition, touching every phase of modern life. Outspoken and enthusiastic approval was given each of the appeals named. Upon adjournment of the conference, the Methodist world, as represented by this conference, will give an expression which will go far toward steadying the sentiment of Christendom in this critical era.

Two times the subject of world peace entered into the day's study and action. The conference paused for a prayer asking divine guidance in the peaceable settlement of the current Sino-Japanese conflict. Dr. A. L. Humphries, of England, offered the prayer. British churchmen attending the ecumenical conference urged American and British leadership toward world peace in connection with the celebration of the Cornwallis Yorktown surrender.

"Heaven Bound" Presentation. Extensive preparations are under way for the presentation next Friday night of "Heaven Bound," the noted musical spectacle and drama. This play is to be given by some 500 Atlanta negroes in compliment to the ecumenical conference, as their contribution to the entertainment program. Announcement is made that all delegates and their wives will be given admission on presenting their badges. Others will be expected to pay an admission fee of 50 cents. The Atlanta negroes purpose to use the proceeds to defray their part in the conference expenses. Indications now are that the city auditorium will be filled to utmost capacity by the Friday night audience. The play is to begin at 8 o'clock.

Preparations also are under way for the conference members to make a pilgrimage to Savannah next Monday, to visit the scenes of John Wesley's personal labors during 1736-1738. Savannah Methodism is eager to entertain the conference membership.

For Hard Coughs That Call For Super-Help

Creomulsion is made for coughs and colds that hang on, for coughs deep and difficult—coughs where you dare not risk a less effective help.

But careful people use it for coughs which seem milder—use it to do the utmost and be safe. For nobody knows where a cough may lead. Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. Some coughs yield best to one help, some to another. Doctors often differ on the best help, for coughs are not alike. So here we combine all the best—to be sure. Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and made palatable. For soothing membranes and combating germs, it is considered the supreme help in this type of cough.

But other helps are sometimes needed—pine tar, wild cherry, menthol, ipecac and others. Nobody can tell to which help your cough will soonest yield. So experts have combined in Creomulsion all best helps in one. No narcotic, nothing harmful to a child, but a seven-way help to deal with all conditions.

The price is a little higher, than a lesser help. But your druggist guarantees it. Your money is returned if it fails to bring the quick, complete help you desire. Don't you think it worth that little extra to be sure that you are doing the utmost for a cough? CREOMULSION for Difficult Coughs and Colds and gives earnest invitation to all to visit the historic city. A special program of entertainment is being arranged by the Savannah Methodistists. 100 to Make Tour.

Request was made that all who would undertake the special tour to hold up their hands and nearly 100 did so. Many delegates from England will be prevented from making the trip. They say that, immediately upon adjournment of the conference next Sunday afternoon, they will be forced to leave Atlanta. Ship sailings from New York have been so arranged that they cannot carry even for a day after adjournment. British delegates will sail from New York on Wednesday for their homes. Common regret is expressed by them, that they will be denied the privilege of seeing the central and southern sections of the state of Georgia, and particularly the scenes of Wesley's labors.

Monday night was "Science and Religion Night," when Dr. A. L. Foley, head of the department of physics in the University of Indiana, presided at the big mass meeting held at the city auditorium. Dr. Charles F. Scott, of Yale University, delivered an address on the subject, "The Religious Significance of Scientific Achievements." Dr. William McDougall, of Duke University, devoted his address to the theme, "The Bearing of Biology and Psychology on Religion."

Foley Defends Scientists. Dr. Foley, presiding, took occasion to assert the untruthfulness of reports made against scientists that they practically all are infidels, and that universities are hotbeds of agnosticism. In the science faculty of the University of Indiana, Dr. Foley said, 75 per cent of the professors are church members, while 24 per cent of those who are church members are Methodists. He further said that four of the nine trustees of the university are professors of science in the institution. He declared this about the average for all universities.

The great audience gathered at the city auditorium Monday night paid tribute to the memory of Thomas A. Edison in singing "Day Is Dying in the West," one of Mr. Edison's favorite hymns, as led by Professor Augustine Smith, conference song director. Bishop Leete and the three science speakers for the evening were prevented from entering the auditorium on time by the great throng of people seeking admittance at the front. They made an effort to get in through a rear window, but gave that up, fearful that a policeman might mistake them for burglars.

Dr. Charles F. Scott, of Yale University, spoke of the significance of modern scientific achievements to religion, especially those of applied science in the domain of mechanical and electrical engineering, saying these achievements have been fundamental in shaping life physically, industrially, economically, socially and morally. He reviewed the progress made during the passing centuries in every realm of human life, bringing a foretime luxuries into millions of American homes today, and said the actual achievement is more notable than Jules Verne's dreams of a former generation.

Effects of Power. Power, and the means of producing power, have been developed, and these have come to have effects that change life, and in the production of abundance, together with a higher standard of living. Attention was given the improved facilities for locomotion, and particular reference was made to the increase of light and the contribution of the late Thomas A. Edison. Dr. Scott thought progress in adjustment to the new mechanized life is being made, referring to increased interest in welfare work on the part of industries, the scientific studies in human relationships, and the progress towards peace universal. He declared the current situation to give the religious teacher and leader a new opportunity and expanding responsibility, and declared this is a time of need for sane leaders. Old bottles are unsuited to new wine, he said.

He asserted the need of new high aims and new methods to meet the present disturbances which are not wholly transient. He urged that one who regards religion as comprising the whole of life, with an ideal that co-ordinates the physical, mental, moral and spiritual welfare of the individual and of the community will welcome the higher standards of living made possible by the power age. He thought religion and industry to be tending in the same direction. The story of man's ascent is the story of his tools. To religion, he said, science brings the means, the tools which it may use in the development of human life, in making it richer and more abundant, and in securing the enduring good of mankind. But religion cannot live in its past and use the tools of the present. It must understand the present and it must change itself so that leaders in affairs can understand it and accept its goal.

Biology and Psychology. In discussing the bearing of biology and psychology on religion, Dr. McDougall said these sciences have been regarded as comprising obstacles to religion than the physical sciences. It is in the fields of biology that a modest reserve in formulating negations is most imperative, for these sciences are still stumbling in the dark. Man is a spiritual being, and the proper work of man is to conquer the material aspects of the world and bring them into subjection to the spirit, remodeling somewhat, enriching his spiritual nature while making subservient to it the progress of his material nature. Science cannot impugn the supreme value of the spiritual, but it may deny, and through the mouths of many has denied, that the spirit is of any effect in the life of man. It cannot deny that man recognizes and achieves truth, goodness and beauty in their forms; that it is his duty that man's aspiration to conserve and create these values is of any effect. This is the most fundamental part of the attack of science upon religion. If this denial which science assumes to make is well founded, religion is undone, undermined, revealed as wholly illusory.

Dr. McDougall then asked, "Is this denial well founded?" Religion asserts that man's spiritual experiences are real, bringing him into contact with a realm of the universe that takes precedence over the physical realm of aspect. Science disputes these affirmations, and it is known that biology and psychology are positive and active in this dispute than the physical sciences.

Effect on Religion. "Do these sciences afford ground for such denials? When largely considered, rather than in their positive support for these two fundamental affirmations of religion?" Re-

Ecumenical Program Today.

At Wesleyan Methodist Church, 9:30 A. M. Topic: "Church Life." President, Rev. John Led Reed. Devotion leader, Dr. J. H. Arupp. Addresses by Rev. J. J. McConnell, Dr. Forney Hutchinson, Dr. Herbert Workman and Rev. R. Alden French.

At First Methodist Church, 10:30 A. M. Topic: "Personal Religion." President, Dr. J. W. Mills. Addresses by Rev. Robert Whittaker, Dr. W. E. Hamaker, Rev. Henry Smith and President Frederick Aden.

At St. Mark's Church, 2:30 P. M. Topic: "Church Life." President, Colonel Charles A. Carlisle. Addresses by Judge M. E. Lawson, Hon. George W. Dixon, Rev. Samuel Horton, W. Horn and Rev. Samuel Horton.

At Ponce de Leon Avenue Methodist Church, 2:30 P. M. President, W. C. Perkins. Addresses by Rev. Robert Whittaker, Dr. W. F. Quillian, Mrs. Elmer M. Boyd and Dr. Frank Kingston.

At Trinity Methodist Church, 2:30 P. M. Topic: "Human Relationships." President, Rev. E. M. Rugg, of India. Addresses by Rev. R. L. Archer, of Sumatra; Rev. William Ried, of England; Bishop Motono Akazawa, of Japan; and Dr. H. E. Woolver, of Washington.

At City Auditorium, 8 P. M. President, Bishop A. Frank Smith. Devotion leader, Dr. Emory Lee. Eastern section platform meeting, with addresses by Rev. William Lax, of the Wesleyan Methodist church, and Geyer Smith, British evangelist.

plying to the first query, Dr. McDougall emphatically stated that biology and psychology do not render religion untenable. And in considering the second phase of the inquiry, Dr. McDougall thought biology and psychology afforded support for man's aspiration to share in the higher realms of beauty, thought and spirit. He said the representatives of religion have ample scope to approach nearer the truth to achieve fuller understanding of the spiritual aspect of reality without any sacrifice of the essentials of religion.

Dr. McDougall, in his address, declared Darwinism, or rather the Neo-Darwinian account of organic evolution to be untenable, and no longer respectable, since that scheme of evolution postulates the struggle for life. Referring to the hardening of life, he stated that some few devoted students had made some slight entry, and have established some thoughts ignored by orthodox scientists. He thought these observations sufficient to establish on a solid scientific basis this truth, that the individual consciousness is not shut up in a prison whose only windows are sense-organs, but each one has a radio-apparatus which, if he learn to use it, may bring him tidings from the remotest corners of the world, surmounting the barriers of space and perhaps those also of time.

One of the chief addresses of the afternoon departmental study groups was that delivered by Judge Orville A. Park, of Macou, on the subject, "What Should Be the Relations of Church and State?"

Judge Park said that no branch of the United States supreme court relative to the matter the true relations that should abide between church and state. The supreme court had said, "It is time for the rightful purposes of civil government for its officers to interfere when principles break out into overt acts against peace and order. In this is found the true distinction that should exist between church and state, as to what belongs to the one and to the other."

Full Separation Favored. Judge Park said that no branch of Methodism had at any time occupied the position of a state church, or received support or special favor from the government. The American doctrine of complete separation of church and state expresses the attitude of Methodists throughout the world. He said perplexing questions had arisen as to the church and state. How far can the state go in recognition of the Sabbath? Should the Bible be read in public schools? Can church property be exempted from taxation? Should religious bodies who maintain their own schools be taxed to support state schools? Experiences in Tennessee and Arkansas as to teaching evolution in the schools indicate another problem.

Judge Park said: "The literature of the day is replete with statements showing that the supreme purpose of Christianity is the bettering of conditions of living, the development of right relations among men and the general lifting up of the levels of life; and that in the accomplishment of these purposes resort must be had to practical measures in the social, political and economic spheres. On the other hand, there are not wanting perhaps an equal number who deplore the entrance of the church into politics."

He cited three ways the church might labor in relation to civil affairs and improvement, namely, by implanting in the hearts of personal integrity in all individuals, by creating a healthy public sentiment, and third, by direct political action in extreme cases. He admitted the danger in such a course, and urged that it should never be resorted to except where the moral issue is plain, and the peril unmistakable.

Dr. Cherrington Speaks. In other afternoon discussions attention was given amusements, marriage, prohibition, education. Dr. Ernest Cherrington, of Ohio, speaking of educating for an alcohol-free country, said the church is a factor in this teaching for the ultimate overthrow of intemperance. He pointed out that education alone cannot bring about the desired consummation, but that governmental action is also necessary when sentiment of a sufficient number has been created. He considered the most difficult part of the undertaking to come after governmental action had been taken. He urged that methods employed by anti-prohibitionists be thoroughly exposed.

Dr. C. Ensor Walters, of England, spoke of the church and modern marriage, some of which, if accepted, would destroy the foundations of civilization. He judged some of the church's weakness today to be due to the decadence of homes, which is a consequence of declining marriage ideals. He related the growth of divorces in England since 1871, when the divorce law was changed from 1,100 marriages, to that of 1921, when the increase was 1 to every 92 marriages.

He urged that the church should be faithful in the matter of maintaining the sacredness of the marriage vows, and decried the doctrines of a new morality, companionsate marriages, trial marriages. Condemning salacious movies and plays, he pleaded that Methodism should give herself to the work of evangelizing.

Dr. Wilson Called. At the completion of the program a period was set aside for discussion and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the board on temperance and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, was called from the rear of the church auditorium.

Dr. Wilson's time was limited to 5 minutes, as were the other speakers. He said that the "Methodist church must do what it started out to do, put the liquor traffic out and keep it out."

"Although there are many who are of the other opinion, I say that prohibition has done more to clean up the politics of this country than anything in the past century."

The Rev. Frank Kingston, D. D., of East Orange, N. J., here interrupted the meeting after an unknown person in the rear had termed Bishop Cannon "a martyred and persecuted man," to talk a few moments on unemployment.

Cannon Takes Floor. Then another applause, Bishop Cannon slowly took the floor and leaned against the chancel rail.

He referred to all of the major questions discussed during the afternoon and said:

"I don't think any civilization can be called Christian that permits people to go hungry. It is up to the church to lead in aiding the unemployed.

"The question of modern marriage is equally as serious. I have been pondering for years, without success, to determine what methods should be employed in meeting the changed conditions. I think it is up to the general ecumenical conference to determine the question."

"In regard to prohibition, the church should speak out. The law shall be obeyed. There is no going back. It is still the curse of nations."

It was after this speech that some person in the rear of the church arose and asked that a committee of five be appointed to report back separately on prohibition, which was later withdrawn after Mr. Walters' remarks.

City council Monday took official cognizance of the conference when it passed unanimously a resolution welcoming the "eminent divines" to Atlanta, and expressing appreciation of the selection of Atlanta for the meeting. The paper, offered by Alderman Farris A. Mitchell, chairman of the board of stewards of Grace Methodist church, extended every hospitality and best wishes for a successful and profitable meeting.

RESULT OF RESEARCH

New Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan Of Home-Control of Colds.

REDUCES "COLDS-TAX"

A quarter century ago Vicks VapoRub introduced a modern and better method of treating colds—externally. Now, Vicks Chemists develop a new preparation—Vicks Nose and Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. A perfect ally to VapoRub, it makes possible the new Vick Plan for better Control of Colds in the home and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Here is the Plan: On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds (crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose—Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril—many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes.

Use the convenient Vicks Drops during the day—anytime, any place—often as needed for comfort and relief. At bed-time, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave be-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This Vicks Plan gives you a full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like another new Vick product—Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.

Trial Packages Free.

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may try the two new Vick products now being introduced, a supply of free trial packages of each has been sent to every druggist in the United States. Go to your druggist today and ask for yours. If, by any chance his supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail free samples direct to you, together with a folder on the new Vick Plan for Control of Colds in the home. ## ATLANTA YOUTH KILLED IN MOTORCYCLE CRASH

Oscar McDaniel, 19, To Be Buried at Austell; Automobile Driver Held.

Oscar McDaniel, 19, of 803 Pryor street, S. W., was almost instantly killed Monday morning when the motorcycle which he was riding struck a moving auto at Marietta and Currier streets and crashed into a parked automobile. A passing motorist carried the cyclist to Grady hospital, where he was said by physicians to be dead on arrival.

The first car struck by the motorcycle was driven by H. J. McBride, of Grove Park, according to police reports. A charge of reckless driving was lodged against McBride by police.

Funeral services for McDaniel will be held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Center Hill Baptist church, with the Rev. R. D. Walker officiating. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery, near Austell.

He is survived by a twin brother, Arthur McDaniel, another brother, D. J. McDaniel, and two sisters, Mrs. C. L. Laird and Miss Arabel McDaniel.

TWO PUT UNDER BOND AFTER LIQUOR SEIZURE

A white man and a negro, arrested by Cobb county officers, were arraigned in United States commissioner's court Monday following the seizure of their automobile containing 40 cases of assorted liquors, which, according to the arresting officers, the two were attempting to "run" north from Florida.

William Robertson, white, was ordered held under $2,500 bond, and Harry Davis, negro, under $1,000 bond by Judge James E. Brown. The arresting officers were Sheriff Hood and Deputy Sheriff Sanders of Cobb county. The cases will be presented to the grand jury today.

TERRY DRUGGAN FREED OF CONTEMPT CHARGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Terry Druggan was relieved of a jail sentence for contempt of court today, the appellate court reversing the verdict of Judge John H. Lyle.

The former millionaire bootlegger was cited for contempt because he failed to appear before Judge Lyle, pleading illness. The state alleged he was well enough to be up and about the streets.

The higher court, however, said the "eastward beer baron apparently was very much wronged" since he and his physicians make affidavit that he was ill and had no intention to impede justice.

MEETING SADDENED BY FLETCHER DEATH

Passing of Wife of British Delegate, at Yorkshire Home, Unexpected.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Deep shadows of sorrow rest over the entire delegation of ecumenical conference delegates coming from the British Isles because of the unexpected death of Mrs. R. Fletcher, wife of Justice R. Fletcher, who is a delegate to the ecumenical gathering, representing the Primitive Methodist church.

Mrs. Fletcher's death occurred Saturday, and her funeral takes place today, at Silsden, near Keithley, in Yorkshire. Mrs. Fletcher had been ill recently, but had so recovered some

Wrong Answer Removes Candidate From Race

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Benjamin Daublin isn't a socialist candidate for supreme court justice any more. He gave the wrong answer.

When the League of Women Voters asked him: "Do you favor women acting as jurors?" Daublin replied: "No, no; no and no. When women show better intelligence, reasoning powers, smoke less, chew less, read less tabloids—then, perhaps, yes."

The socialists' executive committee convened swiftly and crossed Mr. Daublin off the list.

BRIGADIER RUSSELL TO SUCCEED BUTLER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Brigadier General John H. Russell, who served as American high commissioner in Haiti from 1922 to 1930, has been appointed commanding general at the Quantico, Va., marine barracks.

He will succeed Major General Smedley D. Butler, who retired October 1.

Russell, now in command at the San Diego, Cal., marine base, was instructed today to report at Quantico December 1. He probably will be succeeded at San Diego by Brigadier General F. L. Bradman, now commanding the second marine brigade in Nicaragua.

Bradman is to be relieved by Brigadier General R. C. Berkley, com-weeks ago as to be able to be about her usual routine of life. Unexpectedly she was seized with illness last Friday, and passed away within a few moments. She was about 70 years old.

Justice Fletcher received a cablegram from his son, Charles Fletcher, not to undertake immediate return, as everything possible and necessary was being done by friends and relatives at home. Friends and fellow-delegates here persuaded Mr. Fletcher to continue here through the conference session, since he could not reach home in fewer than 10 days at best.

Surviving Mrs. Fletcher are her husband, one son and one daughter, who is the wife of a gentleman farmer in Yorkshire.

The Fletcher family is of high social standing in its immediate section of England. Justice Fletcher himself is a retired manufacturer of cotton goods, silks and suitings, much of which is exported to America. His son, Charles Fletcher, now is in control of the business.

Justice Fletcher comes to represent the Primitive Methodist church of England, in which connection he is an officer of high rank, serving as a connectional treasurer of the home missions department.

Immediately the news of Mrs. Fletcher's death reached Atlanta, the ecumenical conference adopted resolutions of sincere sympathy and condolence for Justice Fletcher and his family. The entire conference membership joins with the English delegations in assurances to Justice Fletcher of deepest and sincerest sympathy, and all sorely regret not only that this sad experience has come to him personally, but also that anything should occur that brings grief in any way to a member of the great Methodist body.

COST OF COTTON MILL OPERATION DISCUSSED

Methods of meeting competition by analyzing cost of operation and reducing unnecessary overhead will be discussed at a meeting of executives of cotton mills at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The survey of the cotton situation and the methods by which this industry may be stabilized, which is being conducted by the National Association of Cost Accountants, will bring to the attention of executives and owners of cotton mills methods by which a specialist in the cost accounting field has found it possible to reduce the expense of cotton mill operation.

The owners and operators of cotton mills are realizing that the present low prices of cotton merchandise, in a great many instances being below the cost of production, are not going to materially increase for some time. The only alternative, therefore, is to analyze the various operations in a mill and make the production capacity of each employee greater. This method of management will, on the one hand, permit the owners to realize a profit on their investment and on the other hand, will not reduce the earning capacity of the employee.

Moving pictures will be used to illustrate various methods and processes which can be improved upon with a saving in expense. A general discussion and round-table conference will take place. The discussion leader is Edward Richardson, of Richardson, Jackson & Davis, public accountants. All members and guests attending have the privilege of taking part in the discussion.

ROOSEVELT TURNS AGAIN TO DUTIES

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Refreshed by his Georgia vacation, Governor Roosevelt returned to his office today, where charges involving public officials demanded executive attention.

He scarcely had seated himself when he was informed that a New York grand jury had indicted his superintendent, Joseph A. Broderick, in connection with the investigation of the Bank of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt had nothing to say today regarding Broderick.

"I am going to work on the budget and I expect it to occupy me for a month," said the governor. He indicated he would comment later on the Broderick indictment.

Bellboy Acquitted.

Like Murray, negro bellboy, first of more than three-score bellboys indicted in a recent vice and liquor crusade in downtown hotels to be given a jury trial before Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court Monday, was acquitted on a charge of soliciting vice.

FRANKLIN ENGINE HAS FLOWN PLANE

"We are selling a car equipped with an engine that has actually flown an airplane," said Frank R. Beall, of the Franklin Motor Car Co., distributors for the Franklin car, "and we have a list of performance achievements of the Franklin car that compares favorably with the marvelous things that air-cooled engines have been doing in the air."

"The whole history of recent airplane progress has been one long tribute to the reliability, endurance, power and gas economy of the air-cooled engine."

"Mention any outstanding successful flight that has had the newspaper headlines in recent years and you will find it was an air-cooled engine that made the triumph possible. Pilots like Lindbergh and Hawks and Amelia Earhart have been outspoken in their praise of air-cooling, and other pilots attempting perilous trips have tacitly voted their preference for air-cooled engines by the fact that they used planes powered by such engines."

"Post and Gatty made their record flight around the world in the air-cooled Winnie Mae. There were no water connections to spring leaks. Many precious pounds were saved for fuel carrying by the elimination of water. Air-cooling makes many things possible in aviation that were never possible before; and air-cooling makes things possible in motoring that are to be had only in the Franklin."

"We are always ready to prove every claim we make for the superiority of air-cooling," said Mr. Beall. "All we ask is to have anyone interested get in touch with us at 481 West Peachtree street, N. E., and give us an opportunity to demonstrate."

Letters Praise $2,300 Game
Which Has 30 Prizes in Cash

Even Though Contest Is Half Over, Time Remains To Enter; Back Pictures Available.

A proverb is the wit of one man and the wisdom of many.—John Russet.

BY THE PROVERB CONTEST EDITOR.

Every morning the postman lights his load when he reaches the desk of the proverb contest editor. Always he has several dozen letters from entrants in The Constitution's $2,300 game of old sayings. Some of the letters are from contestants asking questions. Others are from contestants bubbling over with enthusiasm and eager to make the editor feel that they are getting a tremendous "kick" out of matching proverbs with pictures.

Mrs. B. J. T., of Macon, in her letter to the proverb editor Monday, said "I want you to know that I am enjoying the contest more than anything else I have ever done. To me it is more thrilling than a football game, more entertaining than a show, and you are absolutely right when you say that it is inspiring to study proverbs. I am giving my best effort to find the correct answers and I want you to know that even if I don't get a prize I will feel well repaid by the pleasure the contest has given me. I think I am getting along fine so far. Last week I decided to get a copy of 'Proverbs of All Ages,' and I have found it of real help. It is a great book and I intend to keep it permanently in my home."

"The proverb contest is the most fairly conducted contest I have ever seen or heard about, and I have been following contests for a long time. I want to take this opportunity to again tell you how much I appreciate this great contest."

Monday picture No. 40 of the $2,300 old sayings game was published—and now the contest has reached the halfway point. Some contestants have decided to submit more than one set of pictures and answers, as allowed, but lack all or a part of a second series of pictures and coupons. Since the beginning of the contest The Constitution has made back pictures available at 5 cents apiece—which is, of course, the price of a single issue of The Constitution in which each picture was originally printed. At this rate it would cost a contestant $2 for pictures from No. 1 to No. 40, inclusive, if he or she decided to complete a second or additional set of pictures and answers. Appreciating this, and effective today, The Constitution will permit contestants to obtain pictures from No. 1 to No. 40 for $1.25, or any 8 back pictures for 30 cents. Single pictures will continue to be 5 cents apiece. These pictures, for which a charge approximating the subscription rates of The Constitution are made, have been printed at the request of contestants, on better paper that will take pen-and-ink. The special reprints have been reproduced on heavy white paper, and may be had by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail, when 2 cents extra for postage is included with orders. Contestants are reminded that they may have pictures from No. 1 to No. 15, printed on newspaper stock, free and without obligation.

The special reprints have a variety of uses. They can be used by contestants to replace any of their pictures that have become lost, mutilated or soiled. They can be used by readers who decide to submit a second or additional set, on which they may change their doubtful answers. Or they can be used by readers who have just decided to enter the contest and who need all of the back pictures. Another way for contestants to get back pictures is to ask their friends and neighbors who are subscribers to have pictures from No. 1 to No. 15, printed on newspaper stock, free and without obligation.

Questions and Answers.
Question: "I am working on the proverbs. Will it be permissible to use an indelible pencil? I live in the country and haven't a typewriter." K. E., LaGrange, Ga.

Answer: You may write the answers for the pictures with an indelible pencil, or in any other legible manner.

Question: "Will you please give me references as to which pages in the book, 'Proverbs of All Ages,' I can find the correct answers for Nos. 10 and 13? I don't find them in these two." Mrs. C. W. C., Canon, Ga.

Answer: The proverb editor regrets that he is not permitted to help you in this way.

Question: "What page in 'Proverbs of All Ages' will I find the answer for picture No. 21?" O. P., Rome, Ga.

Answer: The proverb editor may not give out this information.

Question: "At the close of the contest shall we bring our sets to The Constitution—or mail them in?" Mrs. L. A., Macon, Ga.

Answer: The sets of pictures and answers may be brought to the office of The Constitution, or they may be submitted by mail.

Question: "In looking over your suggestions for solving the pictures in the proverb contest in today's issue of The Constitution I notice that you are advising contestants where to find answers to pictures. A lady signing her name as 'Mrs. E. M. O.' states that she could not find the answer to picture No. 9 either in the book of proverbs or the list. I think it is unfair to contestants who are working this contest out to tell other entrants where and how to overcome problems. The other information you give out is appreciated by all, I am sure. But I feel like it is an injustice to the entrants who are relying upon their own judgment. Don't you?" F. J. R., College Park, Georgia.

Answer: Both your question and attitude are reasonable. The proverb editor will continue his policy of not giving contestants direct aid in finding answers. Mrs. E. M. O., in her recent question, said that a certain proverb, which she felt fitted picture No. 9, could not be found in either the free list or the book, 'Proverbs of All Ages.' In reply the proverb editor told her where this proverb could be found, but he did not commit himself as to whether or not this proverb was the correct answer. The proverb editor agrees with you that it would be obviously unfair for him to tell where the correct answers in the free list and book can be found.

Question: "In this contest do the contestants have to make facsimiles of the pictures?" S. H., Midway, Ala.

Answer: No.

Question: "Would I have to find the answer for every picture in the contest in order to win a prize?" W. R. A., Macon, Ga.

Answer: No. The $2,300 in prizes will be awarded to those who submit the largest number of correct answers for the pictures.

Question: "I understand that the proverb contest has been conducted by other newspapers. Wouldn't it be possible for someone in Georgia to know all of the correct answers, having seen them published in other cities?" A. Contestant.

Answer: Many large newspapers have used and are now conducting the proverb contest. However, the pictures and answers in The Constitution's contest are different from those used elsewhere. Hence those who have seen the published lists of correct answers that applied to pictures published in other newspapers would have no advantage.

Anonymous letters from contestants who ask interesting questions frequently cannot, because of limited space, be answered in this column. Contestants can only be assured of a reply when they sign their names and addresses. Only their initials will be used if their questions are answered here.

DOCTOR TAKES BLAME FOR INFANTS' DEATHS

LUEBECK, Germany, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Professor Deycke, one of a group of physicians who are being tried here on a charge of responsibility for the death of 76 infants a year after administration of anti-tuberculosis serum, today assumed dramatically the sole responsibility for the babies' deaths.

He said he administered the anti-tuberculosis serum believing that it would be beneficial. "I know from subsequent experience," he added, "that I made a scientific error. I have tried for years to help the sick and I beg the court to find me alone guilty."

MISSISSIPPI SOLON ATTACKS REPORTER

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Angered by a newspaper description of him as "leader of the lame duck rally," Chairman E. C. Lane, of the house agricultural committee, today attacked Jack Hancock, capital reporter of the Jackson Daily News.

Walking up to a group of reporters in the capitol corridor, Representative Lane inquired which reporter had so described him.

"I did," said Hancock. "We want to get you fellows to adjourn by Christmas."

Lane then struck Hancock and followed it up with more blows. Other reporters parted them and the legislator left with the remark: "You boys better lay off of me in the papers."

$2,300 for Old Sayings

No. 41

The proverb answer is.....

Name .....

Street address, box or rural route number .....

City..... State.....

Don't let this picture "stump" you. If you cannot recall the old saying that fits it, or any of the other pictures of the series, call at the office of The Constitution and obtain one of the helpful and valuable reference lists of 2,000 proverbs. Or a copy of this interesting list may be had by mail by writing to the Proverb Editor, The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage.

Instructions.
The total prize money to be awarded Proverb Contest entrants is $2,300. The first prize is $1,000; the second, $500; the third, $250; the fourth, $100; and the fifth, $50. The supplemental prizes consist of ten prizes of $25 each and fifteen prizes of $10 each. There is no charge to take part in the contest and it is not necessary for contestants to register. There are no subscriptions to get, and non-subscribers are invited to take part. There will be no tie-breaking series of pictures and no extra work will be required. The correct answers are what count. The proverb pictures and answers are not to be submitted until all of the pictures have been published. Three competent and impartial judges, not employed by The Constitution, will decide the winners.

Eating, Not Drinking, Real Question, Rogers Says in Relief Fund Appeal

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—What does prohibition amount to, inquires Will Rogers, if your neighbors' children are not eating?

"What does all this yapping about disarmament amount to," the humorist wants to know also, "compared to our own people that haven't worked in two years?"

"This was his way of getting at the idea that unemployment is the country's foremost problem, in a radio speech late yesterday, supplemental to President Hoover's appeal over the air for contributions to local jobless funds. Speaking from station KFI of the NBC chain, Rogers said:

"It's food, not drink, that's our problem now. We were so afraid the poor people might drink. Now we fixed it so they can't eat."

He was referring particularly to what he called the "cockeyed" situation in which there is an abundance of food supplies, but "yet we are starving to death."

Referring to the unemployed, Rogers said:

"Now a miracle can't happen and all these people get a job overnight. It's going to take time, so they must be fed and cared for perhaps all winter...."

"Now don't wait for the government to feed these people. . . . I don't know anything about America being fundamentally sound and all that after-dinner hokey, but I do know that America is fundamentally generous."

"Mr. Hoover has done some splendid work for us lately. He rounded up the bankers and told 'em if they wanted to continue to get 8 and 10 per cent from the yokels they better start letting out some dough without the security of a right eye and three ribs. He told 'em to melt some frozen assets. A frozen asset is just a banker's mistake. Anyhow, he sent 'em home renewing notes."

"So now things are different. Everybody is holding their own. In fact, that's just what's the matter with the country. Everybody is holding their own—and won't let it go."

"It ain't really depression either. . . . We are just getting back to earth and it don't look natural to us any more. We are back to two-bit meals and cotton underwear and off the $1.50 steaks and silk under-rompers. The trouble with us is America is just muscle-bound from holding a steering wheel."

U.S. EXPECTED TO BUILD NEW GIANT ZEPPELIN

Adams Recommends That Government Accept Newly-Built Akron.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A second great naval airship probably will be built to take its place beside the giant Akron.

The latter has completed its examinations with a speed passing mark and a recommendation was made today that it be accepted. With its acceptance, a contract for the construction of the second ship will become automatically operative, unless Secretary Adams beforehand takes advantage of a clause under which it can be canceled.

At Yorktown today the secretary indicated plainly that the Akron would be accepted and said the construction of the sister ship "probably" would go ahead.

A report on the Akron's fitness was made today by Rear Admiral George C. Day, president of the inspecting board, which put the huge sky warrior through her paces.

The ship is somewhat overweight and has failed to develop quite the expected speed. Nevertheless if Admiral Day's recommendations are carried out, her builders will not be penalized, but will have opportunity during a six-month period to make necessary changes. During this period, following naval navy procedure, the ship will be operated under a provisional acceptance.

As soon as some changes are made the ship will go to her base at Lakehurst, N. J., there to be equipped with machine guns, airplanes and all the armament she is designed to carry.

RAMSPECK SCORES
POSTAL 'POLITICS'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Attacking the political activities of republican postmasters in Georgia, Representative Robert Ramspeck, democrat, Georgia, said today he would sponsor legislation in the next congress to place all postmasters under the civil service.

"Postmaster-General Brown is the dictator from Washington and his orders are carried out by Internal Revenue Collector Rose and the postmasters," Ramspeck said.

OFFICIAL INDICTED IN BANK FAILURE

New York Superintendent of Banks Named in $200,000,000 Closing.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banking, was indicted today with 28 directors of the Bank of United States, in connection with the closing of the $200,000,000 institution last December.

Broderick, charged in three indictments with neglect of duty and in a fourth with conspiracy, appeared in court late in the day. There was a smile on his face as he was arraigned. He pleaded not guilty and was released in $25,000 bail. Broderick had been superintendent of banks the last 31 months and for 35 years before that was a banker.

Nine of the 28 directors, all charged with "negligently participating in the fraudulent insolvency of the bank, also were arraigned. They pleaded not guilty, were given 10 days in which to change their pleas, and were released in $1,000 bail each.

The directors, if convicted, face a maximum sentence of a three-year

Father Kills Own Son In Automobile Accident

WASHINGTON, N. C., Oct. 19.—(AP)—An automobile driven by his father struck and killed Marvin Paul, 17, at Core Point, near here, yesterday, witnesses said today.

Rounding a bend in the highway, Charles Paul, the father, was unable to stop the machine before it crashed into a group of boys playing in the road. Young Paul was killed instantly. Another youth was injured, but not seriously.

penitentiary term and a $500 fine. The maximum penalty for Broderick, if convicted, would be a 12-year term and $2,000 in fines.

Today's action was one more step in the turbulent aftermath of the bank's closing, which affected 400,000 depositors.

It followed bitter attacks which have been made frequently in recent months by republican leaders on Broderick, an appointee of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. The governor has been accused of covering up the bank's failure and of doing business and accepting deposits.

Today's indictments also climaxed a long feud over counsel tables between two of New York's most prominent immigrant lawyers, Max D. Steuer and Isidor J. Kresel. Both came from Europe in their youth and both won unusual reputations for their legal brilliance.

At the time of the bank collapse, Kresel was a counsel for the institution, a director and special counsel for the Seabury investigation of magistrates' courts. Steuer was put in charge of the bank investigation as special prosecutor. One of his first acts was to secure the indictment of Kresel, who promptly resigned his connection with the court inquiry.

At a subsequent trial of three officials of the bank, Kresel was indicted again for perjury in connection with his testimony. Today he was named in two more indictments. Steuer has charged several times that Broderick, knowing the Bank of United States was insolvent, nevertheless permitted it to continue doing business and accepting deposits.

Broderick in a statement said he was at a loss to understand "what exigency" was responsible for the action against him.

"I have toiled patiently, conscientiously and unselfishly with its (the banking department's) problems, and I am prepared to justify my conduct," the statement read.

CANNON CALLS KEY "ANOTHER OF PACK"

Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, said Monday Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, "is simply an addition to the pack which has been yelping at my heels the past three years."

Bishop Cannon's statement was made in reply to Mayor Key's suggestion to his inter-denominational Sunday school class that the bishop "should be kicked out of office."

Bishop Cannon's statement said: "I have no reply to make to Mayor Key's attack upon me. Mayor Key is simply an addition to the pack which has been yelping at my heels the past three years."

WORK OF FEDERATION FOR SCHOOLS REVIEWED

Work of the Atlanta Federation of Trades for benefit of the schools during the 30 years of the federation's existence was reviewed Monday afternoon by Representative Luther A. Still in an address at a meeting of the Fulton County Teachers' Association in the auditorium of Fulton High school.

Mr. Still said that the federation has done more unselfish work for the schools than perhaps any other one agency, and that the fealty and patriotism of the federation for the schools is second to none. The federation has taken a militant stand for years on questions dealing with the human equation, he said.

Miss Mary Barker, principal of John B. Gordon school, and president of the American Federation of Teachers, spoke of the progress being made by the teachers in organizing. Jere A. Wells, superintendent of the county schools, made an appeal on behalf of the Community Chest. Professor W. F. Dykes, principal of North Fulton High school, and president of the association, presided.

NEGRO FIRST BAPTIST OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

A seven-day celebration of its forty-third anniversary began Monday at the Colored First Baptist church, of Reynoldstown, near the corner of Wylie and Kenyon streets, S. E., with Rev. Rufus Savage, founder of the church, as the principal speaker. Rev. W. R. Jones, pastor of the church for the last three years, presided.

Rev. L. A. Pinkston, president of the Atlanta Colored Baptist Ministers' Union, will preach at today's session, which was arranged by the union and the ushers board of the First Baptist church. Monday night session was designated as Sunday school night, when Rev. W. F. Paschals delivered a sermon before members of all the colored Baptist Sunday schools in the city.

Mother's board of the church will be in charge of the Wednesday night exercises and community night will be celebrated on Thursday night, with the church choir in charge. Businessmen of the Reynoldstown section will have charge of the Friday programs. S. H. Archer, president of Morehouse College, and Mrs. Florence Reid, president of Spelman College, will speak at the concluding session, which begins at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Morehouse and Spelman Glee clubs will furnish special music Sunday.

PATROLMAN POOLE FACES TRIAL NOV. 3

Patrolman A. D. Poole, son of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, indicted on a charge of assault with intent to murder, will be arraigned in Fulton superior court the second day of the November term, it was learned Monday with the announcement that Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, would preside in superior court on that date in place of Judge Edna E. Pomeroy.

The term opens on Monday, November 2, and Poole's case is slated for Tuesday, November 3. Judge Hutcheson has been disqualified in a case in his own court and will preside in Fulton superior court for Judge Pomeroy. "The latter will substitute for Judge E. D. Thomas, who will be presiding in the Stone Mountain circuit for Judge Hutcheson. Judge Hutcheson will preside here for the first week of the term only.

BETHEL CHOR TO SING AT BASS JUNIOR HIGH

"Heaven Bound" will be presented at the Bass Junior High school auditorium on November 6 at 8:15 o'clock by the Big Bethel choir. The play will be sponsored by the intermediate department of the Druid Hills Methodist Sunday school.

Officers of the department are: Mrs. John T. Dennis, secretary; Jack King, president; Julian Waters, vice president; and Royal Camp, secretary and treasurer. An admission price of 25 cents will be charged.

CONVICTED BROKER ASKS REED DEFENSE

G. G. Rice, 'Too Poor' To Pay Attorney, Has Spent
$1,300,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—George Graham Rice, elderly broker, on trial for alleged evasion of an income tax on $1,800,000 in 1925, asked a federal court today to summon Attorney Max D. Steuer, former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and other prominent witnesses in his defense.

Rice, who was brought from Atlanta penitentiary where he was sent for a stock fraud alleged to have cost investors $25,000,000, said he was "too poor" to engage an attorney and acted as his own counsel.

He said he had spent $1,300,000 on legal defense against "persecution by the federal and state authorities and the New York Stock Exchange over a period of four years."

Rice moved that the court provide travelling expenses for 125 witnesses including Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the late President Wilson; William Travers Jerome, former New York county district attorney; Daniel F. Cohalan, former state supreme court justice; and Jack Rothstone, administrator of the estate of the late Arnold Rothstein, slain Broadway gambler.

All of these, Rice indicated, were connected in a legal way with his one-time promotions and were among 50 law firms to which he said he paid fees.

2 NEGROES SENTENCED ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Annie B. and Jim Sanders, negroes, tried before Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court Monday on a charge of robbery in connection with a holdup on September 23 of H. T. Dodson, a white man, were found guilty by a jury and given sentences of from four to ten years each. Dodson is said to have lost $10 in the holdup.

VICTIM OF "ATTACK" DIES OF INJURIES

JACKSON, Tenn., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Walter L. Harrison, 41-year-old farmer, victim of what may have been a mysterious attack at his home near Atwood last week, died at a hospital here today.

Harrison was brought here after neighbors found him clinging to a fence near his home. His clover field was burning and his clothing was almost burned from his body. There was a deep wound above his right eye. He never regained consciousness.

Dies of Injuries.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Fay Simpson, 25, of Reform, Ala., died early today of injuries received Sunday afternoon at Reform when her automobile and another which witnesses said was driven by Roy Hydrick, of Millport, Ala., collided. Mrs. Hydrick sustained a broken arm and her son was slightly hurt.

BUILDING CONTRACTS $31,910,513 LAST WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Contracts aggregating $31,910,513 for public and semi-public works were reported last week to the president's organization on unemployed relief. This brought the total of contracts awarded since December 1, 1930, to $2,591,507,252.

Back Itched and Burned. Hardly Slept. Healed by Cuticura.

"I suffered about a year with pimples on my back, and my face broke out occasionally. The pimples were hard, large and red, and after about a week would fester and then form sore eruptions. I could hardly sleep for my back itching and burning, and my clothing aggravated the breaking out. I was ashamed of my back, it looked so badly.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed."

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascart at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascart is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.—(adv.)

Piles Go Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Jacobs' Drug Stores vites every Pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if they do not find Piles in any form.—(adv.)

CHAIN STORE TAX UPHOLD IN FLORIDA

QUINCY, Fla., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Circuit Judge E. C. Love late today upheld the validity of the Florida so-called chain store tax law and denied an application of chain store operators for an injunction halting its enforcement.

The suit seeking to test the constitutionality of the law was brought by Louis K. Liggett Company, operators of 22 drug stores; Winn & Lovett, grocery company operators of 58 stores; and Paxson, Inc., operators of seven shoe stores.

The chain operators claimed the law was "arbitrary, discriminatory and otherwise unconstitutional."

The state contended that the legislature may classify business for the purpose of levying excise taxes.

Looking at Life by the Observer

The Odds Are Against Your Wife

I try to be very tolerant and patient with all my fellow mortals, because, goodness knows, I am far from perfect myself. But when, every once in a while, I hear some big, robust chap stand up and thump himself on the chest and declare: "Me buy insurance! Why? I'm good for another hundred years!" . . . when I hear that, I wish that he might have a chance to watch for a while the workings of a great life insurance institution. The chances are just six out of ten that this fine, healthy chap will die before his wife does. And, just because he is so strong and hearty, he is often just the sort of person who isn't ready to go when his time comes. Also, he is just the sort of man who marries a timid, trusting, sheltered type of woman who never had any business or professional training and who is not in the least prepared to earn her own living.

There's just one redeeming feature about this sort of chap. Once he has seen the light, he is not likely to lose much time giving his wife a square deal. And it is just as well that he shouldn't lose time doing so, for last year alone there were 340,000 people who had thought right along they were fairly good insurance risks only to discover they were not. They waited too long. If you feel you may have waited long enough, I have a plan that will interest you. Simply send your name and address on the coupon below.

Life of Morrow Story of Success

(This is the 15th in a series detailing the life of Dwight W. Morrow, late senator from New Jersey.)

BY MARY MARGARET McBRIDE.

(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

What manner of man was Dwight Morrow? Appraised in the light of his heritage, his efforts and his accomplishments, he seems at first the protagonist of a typical American success story.

He came, as an American hero must, from a humble home, of poor parents. Almost untaught, he obtained for himself an education and a start in life. He became a rich man. But this is only one side of the picture.

What Morrow earnestly sought from the first was not wealth, but work that would absorb all his energies. What he desired above all else was the power to understand. He was ever seeking to know.

The truth is that Morrow was a scholar and a thinker who became successively lawyer, banker, statesman. In each of these positions he developed further that unique ability of his to bring individuals, groups and even nations into agreement. This ability was his greatest contribution to any project.

Mr. Morrow invariably demonstrated an uncanny ability to catch belatedly in their moments of sanity and reconcile them to the best interests of all.

Instead of trying to prove that his opponent was wholly wrong, he adopted the safer method of promptly accepting and endorsing the part that was right. After such fair treatment the opponent usually found himself ready to look at Morrow's own side sympathetically.

And Morrow was an adept at presenting his side.

"If we would stop talking about the causes of war and try to find out more about the causes of one particular war, we might in time learn something of value," he once said.

He grasped essentials by the extraordinary gift of mental concentration which he learned when he studied with his brother and sisters around the lamp in their West Virginia home. This habit of concentration accounts for the many stories of abstraction that his friends love to tell.

Seward Prosser was once toastmaster at a dinner at which Mr. Morrow spoke. In his introduction Mr. Prosser told the most famous of the "abstraction" stories. He said that Mr. Morrow got on a train and when the conductor came round could not find his ticket. The conductor, who knew him, said: "That'll be all right, Mr. Morrow."

But Morrow went on hunting. The conductor said again, "Don't bother, Mr. Morrow." and Mr. Morrow answered, "I must find that ticket. You see, it's got the name of my destination on it and I've got to find out where I'm going."

Former President Coolidge once referred to the fact that "the frivolous said" that sometimes when Morrow boarded a train he was thinking so much of others and so little of himself that he often forgot where he was going.

"But," added Mr. Coolidge, "he always arrived."

Mrs. Tom Lewis, of the Hapeville schools, was elected president of the Fulton association. Mrs. Homer Wilson was chosen vice president; Paul D. West, of the North Fulton High school, treasurer, and Mrs. Burnett, secretary.

JOHANSEN GIVEN PART OF RODY FLIGHT PROFIT

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Captain Christian Johansen, trans-Atlantic aviator, who sued Willy Rody for a share of the proceeds of the flight from Portugal to the United States which ended in the sea near Newfoundland, was awarded 2,000 marks (about $500) by the court today.

The court estimated that Rody received about $2,100 gross revenue from the venture, with expenses figured at about $1,100. The decision was to split the $1,000 net profit equally between the two fliers.

DRY FORCES CLAIMING SUCCESS IN CAMPAIGN

Backers of Prohibition Visit 39 Cities, 18 States in Past 39 Days.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Complete success in its first campaign to obtain dry planks in 1932 was claimed by the allied forces for prohibition today as the democratic national committee pointed to "the wide range of opinion" within the party on the issue.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman, said the allied forces attained "every objective" in the first transcontinental campaign of a drive to pledge a million or more votes to prohibition planks and candidates before the next national conventions.

In 39 days, he said, 39 cities and 18 states have been visited and organized, and 43,000 voters have personally signed "a declaration of loyalty to the eighteenth amendment."

The democratic committee quoted statements on prohibition by George Gordon Battle, New York lawyer, and Representative Tarver, of Georgia, published by the Woman's National Democratic Club in the bulletin which is presenting a series of platform discussions by prominent party leaders.

Battle favored a national referendum while Tarver said "prohibition should be eschewed."

Cotton Textile Institute Plans Greatest Meeting at New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, will sound the keynote of the institute's sixth annual meeting here Wednesday in an address at afternoon session devoted to "Opportunities for Increased Consumption."

Honorable Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of the United States department of agriculture, Brigadier General Henry C. Whitehead, representing war department, and E. T. Pickard, chief of textile division, bureau foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, will be among several hundred guests.

In addition, acceptances to the institute's invitation have been received from many leading wholesale and retail merchants, New York resident buyers and purchasing agents of well known industrial organizations. Over one hundred cotton mill executives, a representative group of selling agents, converters, cotton cloth brokers and finishers, members of New York Cotton Exchange and officials of practically all the trade associations representing various branches of the cotton industry also will attend.

The afternoon session, which begins promptly at 2:30 o'clock in the Cascades room of the Biltmore hotel, will include unique and comprehensive exhibit of cotton textiles, covering a wide range of uses.

This meeting promises to bring together the most representative gathering ever assembled in America of interests identified with growing, manufacturing and distribution of cotton.

HIGH COURT RULES G. E. PATENT INVALID

Supreme Tribunal Refuses Petition for Reconsideration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The supreme court today stood by its decision holding invalid the General Electric Company's patent on high vacuum tubes extensively used in the radio industry.

A petition for reconsideration was dismissed. The suit had been brought by the De Forest Radio Company.

In settling the case last spring, the court held the patent must be set aside for want of invention. De Forest and Arnold had anticipated Langmuir, the court said, and high vacuum tubes were already in use when the Langmuir patent was granted.

The court ordered two changes of the language in the section of its opinion pointing out the dates of invention involved. One of the changes made the decision read:

"August 20, 1912, the earliest date claimed for Langmuir, was rejected rightly, we think, by the district court, which held that Langmuir was anticipated by Arnold in November, 1912."

Previous to the earlier date, the changed decision read, De Forest sought and obtained a high vacuum tube.

The invalidation of the General Electric Company's patent made the manufacture of highly exhausted vacuum tubes possible for all who might desire to produce them. The De Forest Company in bringing the suit claimed that if the Langmuir patent were held valid, a monopoly in the manufacture of high vacuum tubes would be created.

SWOPE FAVORS JOB INSURANCE

Benefits Should Be Provided by Industry, Executive Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Even though he looks upon unemployment insurance as only a palliative and not a cure, Gerard Swope thinks some relief for those out of jobs is "absolutely essential."

He said so today before the special senate committee studying unemployment insurance systems here and abroad.

The president of the General Electric Company, however, opposed governmental action to force industry to adopt such systems.

The first thing that must be done, he said, is to stabilize employment as much as possible. Then, since a certain amount of unemployment is inevitable, there should be insurance for the protection of those affected.

Swope described the General Electric's plan under which workers contribute 1 per cent of their salaries and the company gives an identical amount.

He said the plan had worked out very satisfactorily and no employees of his company had been thrown upon the community.

Chairman Herbert Hoover said it would be wise to have the government also contribute to the funds.

"Industry ought to take care of its own problems," Swope replied. He added that unemployment insurance should be applied universally by industry on a voluntary basis.

The committee also received a summary of unemployment insurance plans in operation in this country from Hugh S. Hanna, of the bureau of labor statistics, who was assigned to study them.

Of 29 benefit plans affecting 226,000 employees, he said most of them worked successfully, although he expressed some doubt whether they adequately solved the social problem involved.

The committee adjourned until Wednesday when former Governor Kohler, of Wisconsin; James Craig, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and others will be heard.

Wounds. Preliminary examination showed the younger woman had been shot at least three times, in the breast, the shoulder and the temple. The other woman had been shot in the temple.

Railroad officials said both trunks left Phoenix at 8:10 p. m. Sunday, and a railroad message from Phoenix said the person sending them gave a fictitious name and address.

TWO PHOENIX WOMEN ARE REPORTED MISSING

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Officials of the Grunow Memorial Clinic of Phoenix said tonight Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroy, clinic X-ray technician, has been missing from her home since Saturday night, and expressed belief her body may be one of two found in trunks in Los Angeles tonight.

Miss Hedwig Samuelson, who maintained her home with Mrs. Leroy, could not be located by newspapermen who called at the residence. Neighbors said they had not seen either of the women since Saturday.

tained. It also fixed an $8,000 minimum for hangar construction at the municipal airport, with a proviso that they must be fireproof, and gave the field manager the right to visit any other fields in Atlanta to enforce provisions of the ordinance.

Fine for Free Treatment.

5. Passed an ordinance by Councilman J. Frank Beck providing a fine of $200 for obtaining medical service at Grady hospital, where patients are able to pay at other institutions, except in emergency cases.

6. Accepted, with thanks, the tender of $105,000 from the Georgia Power Company as an advance payment on ad valorem taxes due November 15.

7. Established a committee for transforming the auditorium annex into a relief unit to aid Atlanta in its unemployment problem and named a committee consisting of Councilmen Ed Almond, Eugene V. Harrington, Milton W. Bell, Frank H. Neely, Lawson F. Turner and Aubrey Millan to handle the problem.

8. Deferred for consideration of the bridge, school, buildings and grounds, parks and aviation committees the request of the Fulton county grand jury that names of persons convicted in graft probe be stricken from public buildings.

9. Referred to finance committee the resolution of the board of public works accepting the proposal of John W. Grant to lend $30,000 to the city for the reconstruction of the Whitehall street bridge and asked bridge engineers of the state highway department and Fulton county to join the city in an inspection of viaduct it is in a dangerous condition.

10. Deferred for joint consideration of finance and street committee the proposal of Alderman James E. Howden to adopt an eight-hour working day for all city employees with exception of department heads, their immediate assistants, firemen, policeman and attaches of Grady hospital and Battle Hill sanitarium.

11. Referred back to the finance committee a council proposal to centralize all disbursements in the office of city controller as a modification of the proposed concentration of the bookkeeping system of all departments. This measure has been a bone of contention between those seeking governmental economies and others for many months. Proponents claim the new system would save about $500,000 annually.

12. Filed the veto of Mayor James L. Key to a proposal to force all hospitals to apply the first of each year for a permit to operate. The paper was passed at the October 5 session over heated opposition.

13. Filed a protest of the City and County Public Service Employees' Union to a proposed civil service measure, and referred to the finance committee a civil service proposal offered by Alderman Ed Gilliam.

14. Referred to the finance and ordinance committees, respectively, proposals by Councilman Ed Almond to establish the city clerk as the service officer of the city with a right to shift employees to meet unusual emergencies of various departments to eliminate necessity for employment extra help and to give Atlanta business concerns preference in city purchases.

15. Declined to allow the Legion of Justice a free license to sell reclaimed clothing, household furnishings, etc.

$3,539,894.61 for Schools.
The finance sheet as adopted provides that schools shall receive $3,539,894.61 from all sources. The paper carrying a total deficit of more than $1,000,000 will go to Mayor Key today for his sanction. No salaries are provided for any department for the entire year.

Several minor changes in the traffic ordinances also were approved. The resolution offered by the bridge committee contemplated that the city would bear half the expense of rebuilding the Whitehall viaduct and Fulton county the other half. State highway officials Monday said they could not participate, inasmuch as the viaduct is not a part of the authorized state system.

1931 CHEST APPEAL WILL OPEN TODAY

District Judge E. Marvin Underwood. Mr. O'Brien was head of the war division of the department of justice during the World War, and as such handled sedition cases and internments, and served as legal adviser of the secret service. At present he is head of the anti-trust division of the department.

Following the meeting, Mr. O'Brien expressed happiness over his visit to Atlanta, saying that he had wanted to see this city for years. "Ever since Henry W. Grady made his speech on 'The New South' the north has looked to Atlanta as the center of public opinion of the south," he said.

Officials Introduced.
The Rev. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of the First Christian church, second vice president of the Chest, and president of the Family Welfare Society, offered the invocation. Hal Houtz, chairman of the budget committee; Al Thornwell, Sam Finley, Bayne Gibson and Hugh M. Willet, past presidents of the Chest; T. G. Woolford, chairman of the budget committee; Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the women's division of the drive; Mrs. Humphrey Wagar, chairman of the advanced gifts group of the women's division; Charles J. Currie, chairman of the industrial canvass; Hal Houtz, chairman of the special gifts committee; and L. H. Moss, chairman of the executive committee of the Chest.

Jackson P. Dick is chairman of the industrial groups division of the campaign. The various divisions have been divided into teams working under officers in army fashion. Medals of merit will be given to the solicitor turning in the largest number of pledges, and others who do notable work.

Radio To Be Used.
Frank Miller, executive director of the Chest, said that radio will be used in the campaign. The headquarters in the Volunteer building and the advertising service have been given to the Chest free of charge, he said. The Ansley hotel donated the dinner Monday night. Mr. Miller held up two checks with the announcement that the Bonhead Club had had $100 in its treasury for several years. "Now the club hasn't a cent in its treasury because it gave us $50 for the Chest and $50 for emergency relief," Mr. Miller said. Henry Stark led the group singing at the rally.

The Chest works raised $420,000 for the 1931 work. The red feather feature of last year's campaign will be repeated.

STYLES BY ANNETTE

FOLLOWS THE NEW MODE IN BIAS LINES.

Note the slim lines about the hips and the waist in this charming model of black crepe satin. The white crepe satin plastron at the front of the bodice is becomingly draped.

The diagonal lines of the applied hands that trim the skirt and the waist, both at the front and at the back, keep the heavier figure slim and make the youthful figure appear even more youthful.

Style No. 599 comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4-1/2 yards of 35-inch material with 1-2 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Velvet is very important for formal wear and it's perfectly lovely in this model in black with the plastron of self-fabric or of white Venice lace.

The pattern also provides to be made in the shorter length about 12 inches from the ground for general day wear, and is splendid in brown canton-faille crepe silk with a plaided vivid red plastron.

Our Fall and Winter Fashion Magazine is ready. It contains styles for children, the miss and, of course, a most attractive selection for adults, including slenderizing effects for stoutness.

Price of book 10 cents. Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap card carefully.

GUNN WITHDRAWS AS CITY ASPIRANT

Number of Contests in Atlanta Primary Wednesday Cut to 13.

Withdrawal of Edgar-Gunn as a candidate for the democratic executive committee from the second ward removed a contest for that post and reduced the number of contested positions in the primary to be held Wednesday to 13.

There are half a dozen city-wide contests, the aldermanic posts in the third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth and twelfth wards. In addition, there are school commission races in the first, second and third wards, and executive committee races in the third, fourth and tenth wards.

Alderman L. O. Mesley, opposed for nomination by Arthur Scott. Monday afternoon took the council floor on a point of personal privilege "to spike malicious reports that I am no longer a resident of Atlanta."

"These reports are being circulated to injure my candidacy by persons who are fraudulently attempting to defeat me. They know them to be untrue. I have been transferred temporarily to Montgomery to work out a problem for my company, but I am still a resident of Atlanta and expect to continue to be. I have missed only one meeting of council since I took office. There is no justification for the rumors made simply and solely to mislead the voters of Atlanta."

Candidates took the stump in two meetings Monday night as the time for balloting neared. One of the meetings was held at Bessie Branham park and the other at the Capitol View Masonic Club, under the auspices of the Tenth Ward Civic League.

Alderman Ed A. Gillis, of the 12th ward, seeking re-election, spoke over the radio in behalf of his candidacy, and Mrs. J. R. Bachman, one of his opponents, issued a campaign statement. L. H. Pinks, third ward, already has issued a statement.

Alderman Ben T. Huiet, of the third ward, opposed for re-election by W. D. Hardaway, businessman, will speak over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight. He urged his friends to visit the polls Wednesday.

Alderman J. C. (Mott) Aldridge, of the seventh ward, opposed by J. M. Barnwell, also issued a campaign statement, and Dr. Fred Morris, opposing J. H. Landers as school commissioner from the first ward, charged that the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association is circulating a ballot carrying him as an alderman instead of as a school member.

"I believe women of Atlanta should be interested in the affairs of its government and have offered for the post," Mrs. Bachman said. "I shall give the position the time and attention it deserves if elected. I believe affairs of the city can be so run as to slash salaries of employees and I will endeavor to prevent this if elected, even if there is reduced revenue."

"Close and cordial relationship should exist between council and the city, and it will be my pleasure to encourage this. We should go to all extremes possible to provide work for unemployed."

"My record as an alderman is before the people of Atlanta for ratification or rejection," Aldridge said. "I have attempted to discharge the duties of the office in a conscientious and efficient manner, always looking to the best interests of all Atlantans."

"It has been my privilege and pleasure to serve the people of this city, and I am asking the full term at their hands as I have only been in office a short time, having filled an unexpected term. I promise to keep the interests of the common people of the city always before me if honored again and to perform the duties of the office as efficiently and effectively as possible."

Morris said the circulation of the ballot listing him as an aldermanic candidate was solely to mislead the voters.

THE CHALLENGE IS ACCEPTED.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When rings a challenge full and clear The coward turns and runs in fear.—Bugler the Elk.

It seemed to Farmer Brown's Boy that never in his life had he seen such a splendid sight as Bugler the Elk standing in a little opening on a high shoulder of the mountain, buying a challenge to all the Great World. He was magnificent. He was in splendid condition and knew it. He was proud of his strength, proud of the great fighting weapons, his antlers, eager to prove his might and courage. It showed in the way he stood and it rang in his bugled challenge. Now then he pawed the ground with an impatient hoof. He wanted all the Great World to know he was lord of the mountain, or felt that he was.

"If I were another Elk and heard that challenge I would want to be pretty sure of myself before I answered it," thought he.

Evidently the unseen stranger was sure of himself, for he was drawing nearer and his replies to the bugled challenge were just as eager, just as confident, just as threatening. There was increasing anger now in both challenge and reply. It was as if Bugler was saying:

"This is my mountain and I dare anyone to deny it!"

Anyway, this is the way it sounded to Farmer Brown's Boy, and the reply sounded like:

"I deny it. It is my mountain as I will soon show you. You'd better go while the going is good, for my strength is great and my antlers are sharp and what I want I take. You are a boaster, but your boasting does not scare me. You may be big, but I am bigger. You may be strong, but I am stronger. If a fight is what you want a fight you shall have, for I fear no one and nothing."

A slight movement among the trees on one side of the opening caught the attention of Farmer Brown's Boy, and presently he made out in the shadows the form of another great animal, an Elk, but without antlers. He knew at once that this must be Mrs. Bugler. She was watching her lord and master admiringly, but whenever there was a reply to that defiant challenge she turned her head that way and listened with apparent interest.

Farmer Brown's Boy knew now that Bugler's willingness to fight was more than the desire to use his strength for the mere love of fighting. He was ready to fight for his own. There was jealousy, jealous anger to spur him on. He was working himself into a rage by this time. He pawed the ground. He shook his head and rattled his great antlers against the tree stub on which he had polished them. He walked over to the edge of the woods and threshed the bushes with them.

And in the midst of this another great bull Elk stepped out into the opening from the far side. He had come to accept the challenge.

EVERY BUYER IN THE FINE-CAR FIELD SHOULD EXPERIENCE 12-CYLINDER PERFORMANCE

The car illustrated above is the Cadillac V-12 Coupe, with body by Fisher trim from the custom shops of Fleetwood. The price, exclusive of extra equipment, is $3795 f.o.b. Detroit

Never in the history of the motor car industry—with the one exception of the Cadillac V-16—has a motor car offered the type of transportation now available in the Cadillac V-12.

Have you ever, for instance, driven an automobile that was almost completely quiet—at every speed you cared to drive?

In the Cadillac V-12, you hear only the drone of the tires against the pavement and the swish of the wind rushing by.

Have you ever driven a motor car in which you were unable to detect even the slightest trace of engine vibration?

In the Cadillac V-12, you find it difficult to realize that your power is being supplied by an engine.

Have you ever driven an automobile that made you feel as if you were being carried along through space without the aid of anything mechanical?

People feel that way when they drive the Cadillac V-12.

These are unusual statements to make about a motor car.

Consequently we should like you to come in and learn for yourself that they are more than justified by the facts.

INSTALLMENT I.

Don Philippe de Rodriguez saw the banner as he stepped from the train. "Hell," he commented to himself, "another one of those damn conventions. The Exalted Order of American Eagles. Can you feature that?"

He stood for a moment gazing with hostile eye upon posters whose red, white and blue lettering shouted, "Welcome, American Eagles. Thrace is glad to see you."

A shining porter hurried toward him. "Take your bag, sir?"

Don Philippe tightened his hold upon his suitcase handle. "No, run along," he said. "Hey, no, wait a minute. When does this convention start?"

"It started today, I think, sir."

"Today?" Don Philippe uttered a few of his favorite expletives.

He looked around for Tommy and Irma. They were at the curb. He saw them in silhouette as they stood gazing disconsolately ahead of them, uncertain of their next move. They too, held suitcases and each stood with one shoulder lowered by the weight.

Don Philippe joined them. "Well," he said, "this is great. A convention. I guess we'll sleep in the park tonight."

The sight of their weary shoulders and dejected faces somehow cheered him. He had forgotten at first that Tommy and Irma would have to endure with him whatever hardships the night offered. It made it much pleasanter to know that this was true.

Irma switched her suitcase from her right hand to her left. The palm of the right was red and tingling. Along with other necessities there was a 6-pound electric iron in that suitcase.

"I won't sleep in the park," she said firmly.

Don Philippe laughed. "You will if every bed in Thrace is taken."

"I won't!"

"Say, you think hotel clerks are going to do handstands when they see you and usher you right to the bridal suite, don't you? They see pretty faces too often to get excited."

"If I don't get a room here—and I mean a room, not just a bed—I'm going back to New York tonight."

"Aw, sir, Irma, you can't do that."

Tommy stared with stricken eyes at her.

She did not reply. He was not the one she had intended to frighten.

Don Philippe smiled reassuringly. "I'll say we can," Tommy said. "His name is Phil Hennessey, but we must be Spanish."

"You're awfully smart; aren't you, bringing the office into the conversation. Well, smarty, I can talk of office, too. You're the owner of the act, aren't you? Do you know that you're supposed to have rooms reserved for Tommy and me? Do you know that we're not supposed to have to foot around at all hours and in all weather? You're supposed to write ahead to a hotel that we can afford and reserve us rooms."

"O, yeh?" When cornered there is no reply that acquits one with more dignity and nonchalance. Philippe repeated it. "O, yeh? Well, we might as well start walking."

They started walking. Don Philippe de Rodriguez and company never used taxis. On the rare occasions when the hotel was a mile or more from the center of town there was always an available trolley. The salaries of Tommy and Irma did not permit of promiscuous use of cabs and the don was too tight-fisted to hail one for a scant five blocks.

They walked on. Neither man offered to take Irma's suitcase. It did not occur to them nor to Irma. There is no sex in tramping, except for recreation.

With three blocks behind them Philippe spoke again. "This is a good little town," he said. "I was here before."

Nobody seemed to care and another silence fell which lasted till they entered the lobby of the hotel. It was a bright, pleasant enough little lobby, indicative of a clean, comfortable, second-rate hotel. Philippe strode to the desk, followed by his company.

The clerk looked at them, smiling sadly.

"Not a thing," he said. "I've got ten beds in one room. We're jammed to the doors."

Philippe threw his cigarette down and stamped on it. "I'm not going to become of us?" he asked.

The clerk said, "I'll call some other hotels for you so you won't have to march around. I'm afraid everything is pretty well filled, though."

"Don't call that guy joint, the Bar-trum. None of us want to go over two fish a day."

"O," said the clerk coldly. "I thought you were more interested in getting set than in anything else. Let's see, there's the Mandeville, but I lowered his voice discreetly, 'I wouldn't recommend that for the lady.'"

"Don't mind me; I work in this act," Irma sighed. She was tired. "I don't really like to suggest it," the clerk protested.

"But in the end he called the Mandeville and the Mandeville hadn't an empty bed."

"Say," Philippe demanded, "why the hell didn't you hold rooms for us ahead? We're steady. Every week people from the theater live here and you get your damn conventions once in a blue moon, but there's no space for the poor actors when the Eagles come galumphing into town."

The clerk said that the gentleman was quite right and that he would call the Dean house. The Dean house was crowded. So were the Merton and the La Paris. But wait, the La Paris would accommodate one. Just one.

"Gee, that's great. Thanks, fellow. When Philippe picked up his suitcase, "Good night, folks," he said to Tommy and Irma. "I hope you get set. See you at the theater tomorrow." He was gone then.

Irma and Tommy watched him swing jauntily through the revolving door. Irma turned to the clerk then: "Do you know of any rooming houses?" she asked, dully.

He shook his head. "That's all the hotels, too," he said. "Gee, I wish I could fix you up, Miss." He gazed resentfully at the revolving door.

"That's a great guy," he remarked. "Why, that's Don Philippe de Rodriguez," said Irma. She had a feeling that the clerk had an ace in the hole. If pleasant conversation could force him to show it she was willing to try. Perhaps he had a bed he would deed over for the night without any strings attached to the transaction.

"What did he get that name?"

"O, we do a dancing act. Spanish dancing. You know, castanets and tambourines and the big stiff all dolled up like a Christmas tree. His name is Phil Hennessey, but we must be Spanish."

"Sure," the clerk turned to Tommy. "You a dancer, too?"

"No, I play the piano. I add tone to the act."

The clerk said nothing. Tommy was a faded little fellow well into his thirties. Perhaps he was a good pianist. Surely he could add nothing in the way of appearance, even if the act needed it. The clerk was willing to admit that it didn't. Here was a gorgeous chunk of woman and the big bono was a swell looking guy.

Irma seemed to be following his thoughts. "Phil is handsome on the stage," she said.

As a matter of fact, carefully made up and in the flattering, romantic costume of Spain, Philippe looked much like the late Valentino. Only when Irma leaned wearily against the desk of a second rate hotel in Thrace Valentino was not the late Valentino. It was 1923 and "Blood and Sand" was delighting movie fans the world over.

"I never saw a handsome guy yet who was decent. Take my wife's sister now, she married a fellow who's a ringer for a Greek god and he—"

"Say, fellow," Irma interrupted. "Have you got a bed?"

"What? O, a bed. Sure I have a bed. The day clerk is sleeping in it. I got it at quarter of six. But this guy Helen married is about 6 feet tall and—"

Supreme Court Will Review Validity of Blackmer Fine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The supreme court today considered almost everything from Texas primaries to miniature golf courses and decided that 22 cases should be reviewed.

It also threw out 88 cases which it thought did not merit further study. Among the controversies the court announced it would review were:

The rights of the democratic party organization in Texas to prevent negroes from voting in the primaries.

The validity of the $60,000 fine imposed on Henry M. Blackmer, the Colorado oil operator, for his refusal to come to this country from Paris as a witness in the naval oil cases.

AN apple at lunch time instead of heavy dessert and two apples at bedtime is a simple rule for health. Apples are as good for you as they are delicious. They help to sweep away the waste of the human body—to change the intestinal flora. They supply not only the needed bulk, but minerals and vitamins, too.

In matters of diet consult your doctor. Many dietitians recommend apples, both cooked and raw, because we moderns should eat more fruit, and because apples have proven a valuable remedy for acidosis.

Be sure to buy Virginia Apples, heavier in weight, juice and flavor. Because of the limestone soil in which the orchards are located—because of the many sun-drenched days in which they honey on the trees, they have "suction" which other apples lack. Virginia Apple Growers, Staunton, Va.

After Sickness

... take S.S.S.—a splendid Tonic for restoring the appetite and for rebuilding the red-blood-cells

"DEAR, here is good news for you." "Let me read you a message I found in the papers today. . . . then I want you to start on your first bottle which I brought home for you tonight."

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality, when lowered in count, render the body weak and deprive you of an appetite.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy. S.S.S. is especially valuable in aiding the system to recuperate after the specific cause of a disease has spent its force.

ments may be avoided—body resistance increased and conditions of a low blood count corrected.

Take S.S.S. and notice how much better you will "feel" . . . as it helps Nature build red-blood-cells it will also create an appetite for food. These two things working together aid the human body in its struggle for health and vitality.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Tomato Vine Grows 14 1/2 Feet in Air

MACON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A tomato vine, estimated by a seed dealer to have a potential value of $1,000 if it can be reproduced, is reaching 14 1/2 feet in the air from the backyard of a local resident.

It was cultivated by Eugene E. Dorsey, Western Union wire chief. Trained around a 10-foot pole, it continued to climb on pieces spliced to the first shaft, averaging nine inches growth each week.

The General Electric Company was refused a rehearing on the case brought by the DeForest Radio Company, which resulted in the court holding invalid the Lenz patent on high vacuum tubes used in radio and other wireless communication.

Blackmer Wins Review.
A $60,000 fine assessed Harry M. Blackmer for refusing to testify in the Teapot Dome oil cases will be reviewed by the supreme court.

Blackmer, wealthy Colorado oil man, was wanted as a witness in the trials of Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior. He persistently refused to return to this country from Paris.

After the revelations of the circumstances surrounding the leases of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills naval oil reserves, a law was passed which gave the government the power to punish witnesses who refused to come from foreign countries to testify.

It gave United States consuls authority to serve subpoenas on persons residing outside this country and provided that a continued refusal might be considered as contempt. Summons was served on Blackmer, but he paid no attention and continued his self-imposed exile begun in 1920.

The government seized $100,000 in Liberty bonds belonging to him. He was cited for contempt and was fined $60,000. The judgment was affirmed by the District of Columbia court of appeals. Blackmer's attorneys appealed to the highest court.

In the absence of a treaty authorizing such subpoenas, Blackmer said, the consul had no power to serve them in France. Consequently, he added, the court could not hold him in contempt or seize his Liberty bonds.

Whether Texas democrats can legally exclude negroes from the party primaries also will be settled by the supreme court.

A protest was brought to the tribunal by L. A. Nixon, a negro, of El Paso, claiming the state's new voting law which authorizes the parties to prescribe qualifications for their members, is unconstitutional.

Nixon was refused permission to vote by the judges, James Condon and C. M. Collier, for $5,000. He claimed he was being deprived of his constitutional right under the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, and asserted the real question was whether his right to vote was to be denied to him because he was a negro.

He lost in the federal district court and the fifth circuit court of appeals held the constitutional guarantees applied only to state action and not to the action of a political party.

TAX ASSESSMENT ON HOTEL HELD UP

Reassessment of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel property was held up Monday afternoon by the city board, when Alderman Frank H. Reynolds announced that approval of the paper providing for an assessment of $1,510,000 would be taken to court.

An effort will be made to prevent such action and another paper will be brought to the next meeting of council, it was expected. Owners of the building contend that the assessment should be $1,650,000 and have said they would fight for that figure if it is not fixed.

All other papers passed to the aldermanic board by council were approved and will go to Mayor James L. Key today for his sanction.

CIVITAN PRESIDENT SPEAKS HERE TODAY

Harold Tschudi, president of the Civitan International, will address the Atlanta Civitan Club at its luncheon to be held at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club. A silver loving cup, given to the club, signifying the greatest number of new groups during the last year and won by the Atlanta organization, will be presented at the meeting.

The cup was donated by Past President George A. Simmons, who has been invited to officiate at its presentation. All members of the club are urged by President Edgar Watkins to attend this meeting.

SAVANNAH WILL LOSE NAVAL RADIO STATION

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The $60,000,000 slice in the naval budget for the coming year includes elimination of the local naval radio station. Washington advised said the personnel of four men would be transferred to other duties.

GEORGIA BANK HEADS TO HEAR COTTON PLAN

Carl Williams To Be Principal Speaker at Macon Conference Today.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The plan of representative southern bankers and the federal farm board to withhold some 7,000,000 bales of cotton from the market until July 31, 1932, as a cotton relief measure, will be outlined before Georgia banking interests here Tuesday.

Carl Williams, member of the federal farm board, and prominent Georgia bankers, including Robert F. Madlos, chairman of the executive committee of the First National Bank of Atlanta, and Ronald Ransom, president of the Georgia Bankers' Association and vice president of the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta, are among the speakers, and the representatives of Georgia's state and national banks will be asked to either adopt or reject the plan.

L. L. Gellerstedt, vice president of the Citizens' and Southern National Bank, Atlanta, will present the plan, which was first adopted in New Orleans on October 12, about 40 bankers of the federal farm board and of the American Cotton Co-operative Association there entered agreement to the plan which they said should result to mature not earlier than July 31, 1932, secured by cotton to the total amount of at least 3,500,000 bales.

The banks will report the total balance to be held as collateral to the presidents of the several state bankers' associations by October 25, 1931, and these presidents will in turn report the total balance of their respective states to Mr. Nathan Adams, of Dallas, Texas, who served as chairman of the New Orleans meeting, and to Mr. E. F. Cressmore, of New Orleans, vice president and general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative Association.

"If by that date these gentlemen, acting as a committee, have received satisfactory pledges from the banks of the several states to finance as much as an aggregate balance of not less than 3,500,000 bales by lending, renewing or otherwise carrying such cotton as collateral for the time in dispute, the federal farm board will agree to extend the obligations of the American Cotton Co-operative Association covering approximately 2,000,000 bales of cotton of the season 1930-1931, or earlier years, to July 31, 1932, unless such cotton can be sold at a price of more than 12 1/2 cents per pound, based on the near month of the New York Cotton Exchange," the plan reads.

"If the substantial reduction of the acreage of this year, now aimed at by the several state legislative enactments, becomes effective, the Federal Farm Board will continue its commitments for an additional year.

"The federal farm board will further agree that, so long as extensions are granted to the American Cotton Co-operative Association under the above arrangement, and with the same stipulations as to price, the Cotton Stabilization Corporation will maintain its present balance of cotton, approximately 1,300,000 bales.

It was agreed at the New Orleans meeting that the banking associations of the cotton producing states meet on October 20 for the purpose of discussing and ratifying or rejecting the plan.

In the case of the cotton bank plan, a pledge has been prepared for distribution at tomorrow's meeting here. It reads as follows:

"In accordance with the agreement reached in New Orleans on October 12, 1931, between the Federal Farm Board, the American Cotton Co-operative Association and the bankers of the south, present at the conference, and believing that it is to the best interest of the banks of Georgia and their customers that a certain amount of cotton be kept off the market until July 31, 1932, the undersigned bank agrees that during the period from the date hereof until July 31, 1932, it will make or renew loans on not less than one bale of cotton for each 1,000 of its total resources, when, and as long as such cotton is properly graded, warehoused, insured and margined, aggregating a total of . . . bales. Cotton acquired by the undersigned in settlement of loans will be counted as part of this quota."

Space is then left for signature and title of banking officer or bank.

H. Lane Young, chairman of the agricultural commission, American Bankers' Association, and vice president and executive manager of the Citizens' and Southern National Bank, Atlanta, and W. N. Harrison, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Georgia Bankers' Association and vice president and cashier of the First National Bank, Lenoir, also are scheduled to speak at tomorrow's meeting.

W. A. DALE, OF ATHENS, KILLED IN ACCIDENT

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—William A. Dale, 52, field sales manager for the Atlanta Marble Works, died here Monday from injuries received Sunday when his car crashed into a telephone pole.

He is survived by his son, Jack Dale, a daughter, Louise Dale, a sister, Mrs. L. Richardson, of Commerce, Ga., and three brothers, Ed and Frank Dale, of Atlanta, and Arthur Dale, of Kansas City.

Hulk Paine, of High Shoals, who was riding with Mr. Dale at the time of the crash, escaped uninjured.

TWO MEN AT BUTLER INJURED BY FLAMES

BUTLER, Ga., Oct. 19.—Jack Adams, 24, was critically burned and R. A. Jones, both painters for the state highway department, were seriously burned when the former's clothing caught fire Monday.

Adams' clothing caught fire while he was burning another. Jones was badly burned about the face and hands trying to aid him.

The injured men were taken to a local physician's office for treatment. Adams' condition is considered grave.

Jury To Probe Arrests Of Padgett, Westberry

BRADENTON, Fla., Oct. 19.—(AP) Circumstances surrounding the arrest of Austin Westberry and Homer Padgett in connection with the recent slaying of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Valdosta (Ga.) filling station operators, will be investigated by a Manatee county grand jury, State Attorney Dewey A. Dye said Monday.

The decision was made, Dye said, following a public investigation held Saturday into the arrests of Westberry and Padgett, who claim they were "kidnaped" by Georgia authorities and taken to Valdosta for trial.

At the inquiry four city policemen testified Westberry and Padgett did not resist removal to Georgia.

Dye said "several witnesses" have been summoned to appear before the grand jury.

Body Found in Ruins Of Fire at Neunan

NEUNAN, Ga., Oct. 19.—A body believed to be that of Charles Stamps Sr. was found here Monday morning in the ruins of the Stamps home, about three miles from here, which burned to the ground during the night.

A coroner's jury was summoned to investigate when the body was found. That Stamps was seen with two men last Sunday afternoon and that no members of the Stamps family were in the house at the time of the fire.

Tentative identification of the body was made by means of a pocket watch and a ring of keys.

The coroner will complete the inquest Tuesday.

TRIO HELD BY POLICE IN SAVANNAH SHOOTING

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—T. D. Burnside and his wife, and Burnside's mother, Mrs. Cornelia Burnside, were in custody of police Monday night in connection with the shooting Monday of George W. Stephens. Stephens is in a local hospital suffering from bullet wounds and his condition was reported as critical.

One bullet took effect in the head, one in the abdomen and another in the hip.

Police said Stephens made a statement from his hospital bed saying he had been asked by Mrs. T. D. Burnside to come to her home. When he walked into the house, he said, the woman's husband met him and that Burnside had two pistols. He said Burnside gave him one of the pistols. An attempt to get away, Stephens said, was halted by the pistol firing. In his attempt he told officers he scuffled with Burnside's mother, who was taken to a hospital for treatment for injuries, the extent of which hospital officials said had not been determined.

Records at police headquarters show that Burnside some time ago was wounded by his wife in an automobile but that the affair was "an accident."

F. M. GIBSON NAMED BY SUWANEE LEGION

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 19.—Frank M. Gibson has been elected commander of the Suwanee River post of the American Legion, which serves Fargo and Homerville and the surrounding territory. He succeeds Herman Johnson.

Dr. L. P. Farmer is the new senior vice commander, with Warren L. Mobley as junior vice commander. Dr. K. K. Arriett was named service officer, with W. A. Howell as chaplain, and Ben Bryant as sergeant-at-arms.

YORKTOWN PROGRAM HELD IN SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Placards showing the history of two brass cannon, one an English field piece and the other a French gun, presented by General George Washington to the Chatham artillery after the surrender of the British at Yorktown, were displayed here Monday on the guns at public exercises celebrating the sesquicentennial of the surrender. The inscriptions on the placards tell the story of the two guns.

Savannah Chemical Company Plans $100,000 Expansion

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Savannah plant of Paper Makers Chemical Company, with headquarters in Kalamazoo, Mich., announced here Monday through the industrial committee of Savannah, that it would enlarge its local plant at a cost of $100,000 and would add 15 or 20 permanent additions to the payroll.

The local plant is located on Louisville road, three and a half miles from Savannah. It was originally built several years ago by the Western Paper Makers Chemical Company, which became affiliated with the new concern capitalized at $8,000,000.

President W. J. Lawrence, in confirming the announcement in Kalamazoo, stated that the machinery was en route to Savannah. Work started here Monday on preparing for the improvement.

The company controls an enormous area of forest lands in Echols and Clinch counties whose naval stores operations have been under way for some years and a system of reforestation is carried out for continuation of the timber supply and its products.

The products of the corporation are principally chemicals used in paper and allied industries. The Paper Makers Chemical Company has just been affiliated with Hercules Powder Company, announcement of which was made yesterday. Both concerns are among the largest of their kind in the world, the paper makers being the largest manufacturer of rosin sizing for the paper industry, in which production it uses an enormous amount of rosin. Other chemicals are manufactured by the company, which has 17 plants in this country, Canada and England. The Hercules Company is one of the world's largest consumers of rosin, gum and wood.

ROBERT AYCOCK DIES AT HOME IN MONROE

Prominent 82-Year-Old Walton Countyman Passes After Long Illness.

MONROE, Ga., Oct. 19.—Robert Aycock, widely-known resident of Walton county, died at his home in Monroe early Monday morning of an illness lasting several weeks. He would have been 82 years of age in November. Most of his life was spent in this county, his birthplace being only two miles from Monroe. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert and Martha Snow Aycock.

He married Miss Sorrells, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sorrells. She died shortly after their marriage and he was then married to Miss Nann Cobb. Two children were born of the first marriage, one of whom died early. The other, Mrs. O. H. Dillard, lives at Watkinsonville. Out of the union with his second wife five children were born. All but one with their mother, survive him as follows: Misses Bessie and Hennie Aycock, John T. and Early Aycock, all of Monroe. He is survived by a brother, H. J. Aycock, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Verner and Mrs. Benjamin F. Moon.

With the exception of a few years spent in the Snows Mill community, Mr. Aycock had lived most of his life in and near Monroe. Here he was identified with the farming interests, owning quite a large estate. He was for many years a member of the Methodist church, having joined in early life at Mount Carmel. He was influential as an official of the church. Funeral services are in charge of his pastor, Rev. T. Z. B. Everett, and will be held from the home Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, followed by interment in the City cemetery.

Aycock Brothers, Monroe, sons of Robert Aycock, are numbered among the most prominent and successful businessmen of northeast Georgia.

APPEAL AGAINST FIRM IN SAVANNAH DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(P)—The United States supreme court will not consider the appeal of the Twin City Power Company to prevent condemnation by the Savannah River Electric Company of its property on the South Carolina side of the Savannah river at Price's island. The court ruled the case did not present a controversy to be decided on its merits and dismissed the appeal. It also dismissed the appeal of the Augusta Power Company and other land owners in McCormick county, South Carolina, who protested against condemnation of land by the Savannah River Electric Company.

The supreme court entertained the plea of the Atlantic Coast Line and other railroads to test an order of the interstate commerce commission requiring them to publish tariffs for through routes on shipments over the Greenwood extension of the Georgia and Florida railroad between Greenwood, S. C., and Augusta, Ga.

The government was granted a review of two cases in the federal courts in Georgia and Florida relating to taxes on oleomargarine. In these, the government insisted the Standard Nut Margarine Company of Florida was manufacturing a product subject to the tax imposed on oleomargarine.

Another controversy the court decided to review was presented in the appeal of the Fox Film Corporation challenging validity of the Georgia statute under which it was taxed on royalties received from United States copyrights.

Farm Development in South Urged at Economic Session

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19.—(P)—Professor S. H. Hobbs Jr., of the University of North Carolina, in an address Monday night at the opening session of the southeastern economic conference, said a real opportunity for the south lies in its development of agricultural industries.

He cited as examples of agricultural industry the processing and packaging of food crops, live stock products, fruits and vegetables. "If only the south could feed herself, she would retain at least one billion dollars that are now exported each year for food that no section of the world is better fitted to produce."

Prior to the opening of the conference, the Southeastern Council, an organization designed to diagnose the ills in the economic situation in the southeast and effect their cures, was formed by merger of the Agricultural Council and the Industrial Council.

PAPE NAMED HEAD OF GEORGIA CIVITANS

CARROLLTON, Ga., Oct. 19.—Harry E. Pape, of Macon, Ga., Monday was elected state Civilian governor at the district convention of Civitans' heads here.

Other officers elected were: State Lieutenant—Homer Watkins, Rockmart; Tom Galloway, Macon; Paul Sprayberry, Powder Springs; Arthur Parsons, Watkinsonville. The executive committee is composed of Paul Fite, Dalton; Thomas R. Luck, Carrollton; Walter Bryant, Decatur.

More than 150 delegates attended the convention, which was concluded late tonight. International Civitan President Harold Tschudi, of Baltimore, Md., was tonight's principal speaker. Others who spoke at the final session were Civitan Governors Herbert Porter and W. Earl Quillian, Atlanta; Mayor Thomas R. Luck, Carrollton; P. L. Shaefer, Carrollton; Dr. Floyd Fields, dean of men of the Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta; and Arthur Cundy, International Civitan secretary.

An increase in club organization and strengthened activity of Civitan was noted in the report of the retiring state Civilian Governor Charles N. Walker. Delegates attended a barbecue at noon and afterwards watched Civitan leader Elvins in a series of airplane stunts, during which the Atlanta pilot dropped a football on the local field, starting the game between Georgia Industrial College of Barnesville and the Carrollton A. & M. Carrollton won the game, 40 to 0.

REV. R. B. MAYFIELD NEW AUGUSTA PASTOR

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—(P)—The Rev. R. B. Mayfield, formerly of Atlanta and Clearwater, Fla., has assumed the pastorate of the Second Baptist church here. Mr. Mayfield, a Texan by birth, was associated with Dr. E. M. Potter, of the Second Baptist church, Atlanta, until called here. Previously he was educational director of Baptist churches in Clearwater, Fla.

SOUTH GEORGIA GROUP
URGES DIVERSIFICATION
LAKELAND, Ga., Oct. 19.—At a regional conference of bankers, county agricultural agents and county home demonstration agents, the following program was adopted for 30 acres—the one-horse plow farm unit:

One acre home garden, one acre sweet potatoes, one-half acre sugar cane, one acre millet, followed by peas or peanuts; four acres corn, Spanish peanuts and peas; ten acres corn, runner peanuts, velvet beans, including one acre of peas; five acres oats followed by peas for hay; one and one-half acres tobacco; four acres cotton, two acres pasture, two milk cows, two brood sows and 50 purebred hens.

It was the unanimous agreement that such a program would improve the soil on the farm, would make the farm self-sustaining, would decrease the dependence on cotton and tobacco, and would serve to introduce livestock farming.

SPARKLING COMEDY
"Laugh and Get Rich" is the title of a sparkling comedy shown this week at the Rialto and if it were possible the audience probably would get the benefit of the full title. But being that it isn't, the customer must be satisfied just to laugh.

The film features Hugh Herbert and Dorothy Lee, a couple of lesser known young people, but the honors are all heaped upon a slightly offbeat, but about the queerest appearing person on the modern screen and just as riotously funny when she elects to play the role of a slightly intoxicated lady. Edna May has just about come up to the inebrated standards of Charles Butterworth and Charlie Ruggles in "Laugh and Get Rich."

The story is about a woman with a background and a man without one going through a score of years of operating a boarding house. Edna May is the wife. And she runs the works. Landladies would do well to invest a small sum in the picture.

For those who do not think a feature comedy is enough the management has added a short with the popular Slim Summerville and Eddie Gribbon. —L. A. FARRELL.

TRIAL OF MINISTER BEGINS IN AUGUSTA

Bloody Shirt Sent to Laundry by Pastor After Son's Burial, Say Witnesses.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—(P)—State witnesses testified today that the minister brought his son's bloody shirt to a laundry two days after the son was buried and that automobile tire trends at the place where the body was found corresponded with trends made by the minister's automobile.

Willie Brown, the negro laundrywoman, of Rochelle, told the jury selected this morning when the trial opened in Richmond superior court that the minister brought her in his laundry a shirt which had blood on the left shoulder. She said she washed the shirt in cold water to get the stains out. Leonard Brown, her husband, corroborated his wife's testimony.

Deputy Sheriff Walter E. Kent testified that after a white hauler tire trends similar to those found near the body, about nine miles from Augusta, he found them in the yard of Mr. Williams' home at Rochelle. The officer said measurements of the trends of the death-car tires were exact in every detail to those of the pastor's car.

The witness also said he measured footprints at the scene of the killing, and the measurements fitted those of the prints made by Mr. Williams' shoes. The Rev. Williams told me, he said, "at the time of the arrest that he had only one pair of shoes; that he wore them all the time."

Superintendent W. P. Hawks, of the Rochelle schools, and his wife, testified the minister left his older children with them when he made a trip on which he said he went to Atlanta to put his son Grady on a bus for New York. The superintendent and his wife said they waited until 11:45 p. m. the night before the body was found, and then retired when the minister had not returned. They said they did not see him until about 7 o'clock the next morning.

Bill Key, Augusta Chronicle reporter, who drove the minister's car from Rochelle after he was arrested, testified concerning the speed of the car, saying that at one time he was going as much as 76 miles an hour. In summing up the case before the jury, Solicitor-General George Hains told the jurors that he had been told to put his son Grady on a bus for New York. The superintendent and his wife said they waited until 11:45 p. m. the night before the body was found, and then retired when the minister had not returned. They said they did not see him until about 7 o'clock the next morning.

On the opposite side of the court room, surrounded by the state's attorneys, was the young widow of the sailor, who had come from Kittery, Maine, with three of her relatives to attend the trial.

The first witness called was Mrs. R. H. Lombard, who was the first to examine the body and it had been found on the morning of August 5 on the highway near Lombard's mill, nine miles from here. Dr. Irvine Phinizy, coroner's physician, who also testified, said young Williams had been shot twice. Dr. Phinizy also testified that it takes from four to eight hours for rigor of mortis to set in after death.

David Sturgess, negro, who discovered the body, and Deputy Sheriff W. C. Wilkinson, who was called to the scene, were the other two witnesses.

Solicitor Hains told the jury he would offer testimony tending to show the preacher killed his sailor-son to obtain insurance on the latter's life. Brokers, with whom the state says the preacher had stock dealings, have been summoned as witnesses.

The slaying and subsequent arrest of the former Methodist preacher, who held a pastorate at Rochelle, Ga., at the time of his arrest, attracted wide interest. Mr. Williams was subsequently suspended from exercising his ministerial functions in the church, pending an investigation by church authorities.

Officers said Mr. Williams was arrested when it was noticed that automobile tire marks found near the scene of the slaying corresponded with tires used by the preacher on his own machine.

Mrs. W. W. Bateman Re-Elected Director Of Chorus Club

Mrs. W. W. Bateman, well-known musician and composer, was re-elected director of the College Park Women's Chorus at an enthusiastic meeting of the organization held recently at the home of Mrs. Douglas Lyle in College Park. Miss Avis Patterson, who has served as accompanist, was re-elected for that service for another year. Mrs. Eva L. Thornton was re-elected secretary; Mrs. R. T. Aderhold, treasurer; Mrs. Roy Willett, librarian; Mrs. Clarence Wall, Mrs. J. C. Hale, Mrs. Eva L. Thornton, Miss Patterson and Mrs. Bateman constitute the membership committee. The chorus meets each Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Douglas Lyle, with Mrs. Lyle serving as official hostess. Plans were made for a number of public performances to be given during the year. This chorus is an important department of the College Park Music Club and has appeared on numerous civic occasions and given recitals in several nearby cities. During 1927 the chorus won the state banner as the best chorus in the federation. Membership is limited and a waiting list is carried each year.

The personnel of the chorus includes Mesdames R. T. Aderhold, C. E. Conklin, Crowder Hale, W. C. Mizelle Jr., Raymond Williams, Louise Nail, Lella Mae Bell Oliver, Cecil Ward, W. E. Green, R. R. Thomas, J. D. Conley, Stokely Northcutt, Harry Looney, Douglas Lyle, R. S. Rosser, J. H. Warlick, Roy Willett, Clarence Wall, Freeman Doss, Woodward Wells, R. C. Edwards, Dewitt Hunt, Eva L. Thornton, L. M. Dewell, D. M. Berry, W. Ward and Misses Mary Busha, Malota Conley, Lucile Mason, Reeves Rice, Christine Trimble, Annie Thornton, Evelyn Dadd, Ellen Keener, Zella Sorrells.

Mrs. Donnelly Changes Buffet Supper Date.

Mrs. Edward T. Donnelly has changed the date of her buffet supper, which was previously announced for Saturday, October 24, to Saturday, November 7. This interesting affair will honor Mrs. Donnelly's daughter, Mrs. Wallace Wright, of Virginia Water, England, who arrives this week with her young daughter, Miss Flora Bewick Wright, for a visit to Mrs. Donnelly at her home in the Pallas apartments on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Wright, formerly Miss Flora Fitten Bewick, representative of prominent southern families, will be numbered among the most popular visitors to Atlanta this fall and will be honor guest in a series of interesting social gayeties.

Sisterhood Tea.

Shearith Israel Sisterhood will give a silver tea at the Jewish Progressive Club Wednesday, October 21, at 3 o'clock. An interesting program has been arranged with Joe Berman, prominent Atlanta lawyer, as speaker. Eli Fresh will present with the aid of his father a short skit from a minstrel. Mrs. Ben Brodie will have charge of the music and will give several piano solos. The public is invited.

Miss Moore To Be Honored At Dinner-Dance

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Healey will entertain a party at the dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club Saturday evening, November 14, in honor of their cousin, Miss Jaquelin Moore, one of the season's most popular debutantes. Mrs. Healey was the former Miss Cornelia Orme, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme, one of Atlanta's most popular belles and a cousin of Miss Moore, who acted as a bridesmaid in her wedding which was a brilliant event of last October.

Miss Moore, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, will be formally presented to Atlanta society by her parents Thursday evening, October 20, at the Atlanta Woman's Club. This affair will be in the form of a musical, because Miss Moore is a talented harpist, and assisting Miss Moore on the program to be given in the auditorium of the club will be Mrs. Charles Chalmers, pianist, and Mrs. Alex King Jr., violinist. A reception follows the musical program and takes place in the banquet hall of the club, at which dancing will be enjoyed.

Mrs. Tupper Plans Informal Luncheon.

Miss Henrietta Mikell, bride-elect, and Mrs. Edgar Burton, of Toronto, Canada, will share honors at the informal luncheon given Thursday, October 22, by Mrs. S. V. Tupper at the Piedmont Driving Club.

JUNIOR LEAGUE JOTTINGS

BY MRS. HENRY W. GRADY JR.

If you happened to pass J. P. Allen's store window either last Wednesday, Thursday or Friday you were probably astonished to see, instead of the usual wax figures, several real live girls.

MISS WOLFF.

Pretty Marion Wolff deserves the credit in arranging this exhibit, for at the request of the Red Cross she undertook to furnish Junior League girls for a living window display which would make a moving appeal to the public at the beginning of the Community Chest campaign. On our youngest and loveliest members were asked to appear in the show window, and dressed in the conventional blue smock and white headgear of the Red Cross they looked lovelier than ever. Various posters and signs provided a background, and the girls sat mending clothes and knitting the hours away. During the three days the following might have been seen at one time or another: Misses Hannah Stearns, Adair McCarley, Grace Powell, Virginia Torrance, Virginia

Counts, Marion Wolff, Frances Barrett, Lena Knox and Mesdames Lewis Little, Eugene Black Jr., David Black, Robert Whitley and Nisbet Marye.

Fall housecleaning should be over by this time and closets and cedar chests should have yielded up a great many garments that have been discarded and are very much in the way. Please make a nice large bundle of such articles and the Junior League will relieve you of it with the minimum of effort to you. Just call Mrs. Allison Thornwell, Hemlock 5190, and she will send one of her committee to carry it away and store it with the rest of our collection at the home of Mrs. J. C. Harris Jr. Don't forget, but phone today!

The Atlanta Junior League is delighted to welcome three transfers to our membership. Mrs. David Bitney comes to us from New Orleans, while Mrs. T. Reuben Waggoner has moved here from Savannah. Miss Cate Coggins, a transfer from Denver, Col., although she is a resident of Canton, Ga., has been allowed an out-of-town membership in the Atlanta League and we hope to see a great deal of her. They are all transferred as members in good standing, and we are sure they will prove to be valuable additions to our league.

We are also sorry to announce that we are losing five girls to other cities. Mrs. William Bedell and Mrs. James

Miss Lawrence Gives Bridge-Tea.

Miss Christine Lawrence was hostess Saturday at a bridge-tea at her home on West Howard avenue, in Decatur. Miss Lawrence was assisted by her mother, Mrs. S. L. Lawrence, and her sister, Miss Marie Lawrence. The guests included Misses Clara and Marion Weekes, Winnie Mosley, Doris Greeley, Angeline Sasset, Clara Belle Adams, Katie Hazel Houston, and Mesdames Frank Thomas, Leech Chapman, W. D. Callahan, Sam Harbin, C. M. Sanders, Meltou Riley, Homer Allen and L. D. Thomson.

Mrs. Pardee Honors Miss Laura Hoke.

Mrs. Don A. Pardee entertained at dinner Sunday evening at the Georgian Terrace as a complimentary gesture to Miss Laura Hoke, attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke. A crystal bowl filled with pink roses and cosmos graced the center of the table, and monogrammed cards of the hostess marked the guests' places.

Invited to meet Miss Hoke were Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt Carter Jr., Misses Josephine Richardson and Lydia Hoke, Frances Gilbert, John Lambert, Robert P. Kennedy and Iman Brandon.

V. Scales will go to Miami, while Mrs. Henry Pund has asked for her transfer to Akron, Ohio. Mrs. Leon Mandeville will become a popular member of the Asheville league and Mrs. Clarence Laws will soon go to Knoxville, Tenn. It is indeed a blow to lose these representative members and we envy the lucky cities that will annex them.

Miss Marie McAfee And Mr. Brandon Are Complimented

Lawrence Hight entertained at a buffet supper last evening at the Druid Hills Golf Club in honor of Miss Marie McAfee and Nathan Brandon, whose marriage takes place Wednesday, November 4. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the floral decorations and table appointments, and Mrs. Carrie D. Hight assisted the host in entertaining. The guests included Misses Marie McAfee, Lawson McAfee, Nancy Keeler, Jean Nutting, Natalie de Gollan, Elizabeth Hancock, Louise MacIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon Jr., Nathan Brandon, Allison Adams, Ed Smith, Julian Weems, of McDonough, Ga.; Wilbur Blackman, Philip Alston Jr., Iman Brandon, Carter Horne, Henry Johnson Jr., Frank Iman, Tom Arnold and Alex Gaines.

Grant Park Baptist Class To Entertain.

Mrs. Battle Is Leader.

Beta chapter of National Pi Omicron sorority met with Mrs. Richard Battle, leader, at the Winifred hotel Tuesday evening. An interesting discussion of "France and Her Colonies," and the conditions in Europe at the present time, and a discussion of the writings and lives of Scott, Hudson, Whitman and Woodrow Wilson featured the meeting.

Mrs. Nunnally's Work Will Be Exhibited.

An attractive feature of the tea to be given by the Studio Club Wednesday afternoon, October 21, at its clubrooms at 1041-2 Forsyth street, will be the exhibition comprising 25 paintings, the work of Mrs. James H. Nunnally, prominent Atlantan, whose work merits praise and who is unusually talented.

Mrs. Nunnally is a valued member of the Studio Club and has recently taken her place among Atlanta's leading artists. She has made rapid progress with her work since she began her studies with John Rich, of Los Angeles, leading California artist. Mrs. Nunnally took up the study of art at the suggestion of her friend, Miss Kate Edwards, well-known Atlanta artist, who recognized Mrs. Nunnally's artistic gift and encouraged her to seriously pursue her study of art.

Miss Longino Honors Miss Mariel Smith.

Miss Verona Longino held "open house" Sunday evening at her home, 640 Somerset terrace, N. E., to 100 guests in honor of Miss Mariel Smith, bride-elect of November, who is to marry Miss Longino's brother, Lester Longino.

The house was decorated with garden flowers, and the color scheme in the dining room was in green and white. An exquisite lace cloth graced the table and the centerpieces were of green and white mums were placed around a centerpiece of pink roses and orchid lantana.

Assisting Miss Longino in entertaining were her mother, Mrs. R. L. Longino; Miss Charabell Smith, twin sister of the bride-elect, and Misses Hilda Muench, Sue Fincher, Sarah Burks and Mollie Horton.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

The Crowned Queen Is Not So Safe and So Serene as the Village Grandmother—"You Can Goad an Animal or a Child Just So Far Without Getting Into Trouble."

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I am sixty years old. My life is more than half spent and I have seen nothing of the world. It has always been my ambition to get about a bit before I should be too old to go but I suppose my chance is not to come.

First the children were little and since we were poor there was never any one to leave them with and no money to go on. Then came their education and still no opportunity to take trips. Sometimes I feel that I have been cheated out of a great deal of pleasure, living all my life in a village and not even getting so far as the capital of my state. Why is it, I wonder, that some people seem to have what they want in this world all the way through and others take the leavings? My husband is still a poor man and he constantly reminds me that with the strictest economy we can manage to prepare for our very old age without having to depend on our children for support. Whenever I suggest that we throw caution to the four winds, and go out and see something before we die he vetoes the plan. So I suppose I shall spend the rest of my days as I have spent the others, cooking, cleaning, mending, going to church and paying an occasional visit to a neighbor. It's drab and dull, I have my children living nearby and their children, all of whom come to see me often and they furnish all the excitement I have. Would you call it a full life? DISGRUNTLED.

ANSWER: My dear woman, I would call it the fullest life. Suppose you ask some of these people to whom you refer as having what they want and going where they please, suppose you ask them what is the best part of going on a trip. With one accord they will tell you, "Getting home." Suppose you ask them what they consider the chief joys and pleasures of life. They will answer with one accord, "The heart pleasures." If it's a woman she will tell you that the joy and delight of a happy home life is the best thing in the world. A family of children who grow up into self-respecting, self-supporting men and women is incomparable to any other joy in this life. If it's a man he will tell you the same thing, with variations.

Happy is the woman who has her home to come to and three happy when it contains a husband, and occasionally her children and grandchildren! CAROLINA CHATFIELD.

Culbertson on Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A Legacy of Whist

One of the most beautiful and unusual plays in Bridge owes its name to the parent game of Whist. The play is called the Vienna Coup and consists in establishing a winning card in the hands of one opponent, to the parent game of Whist. The play is called the Vienna Coup and consists in establishing a winning card in the hands of one opponent, to the parent game of Whist. The play is called the Vienna Coup and consists in establishing a winning card in the hands of one opponent, to the parent game of Whist.

Through very optimistic bidding, North and South had arrived at a contract of seven notrump. The fact that to make this declaration it was necessary to make two successful finesses and then establish a squeeze situation by means of the Vienna Coup, illustrates that their bidding was not entirely sound. However, it is one of the virtues of a great player that he can sometimes redeem the faults in the bidding by accurate play.

West selected for his Opening lead his fourth best spade and the Declarer won with the Ace. A diamond was led to the second round and the Knave finessed in Dummy. Now the Queen of clubs was led and East refused to cover. Actually, his play here is immaterial.

It was upon the fifth lead that South made the Vienna Coup. Leading the 5 of hearts from the North hand, he made no attempt to finesse, but took the trick with the ace in the closed hand and then laid down the Ace of clubs, upon which West was forced to discard and chose the 2 of spades. A diamond was then led and the finesse taken the second time. East failed to follow, but this made no difference, and the Ace of diamonds picked up West's King.

The two high diamonds now accounted for the ninth and tenth tricks, and on the eleventh trick West was faced with this situation:

TODAY'S POINTER. A deck of cards with its four suits is built upon two principles: 1—The principle of rank (quality), according to which each card of the suit is either higher or lower than the next. From this source are drawn all the honor values where a trick is won simply because a card is the highest of the suit led. The second source of tricks is the length principle (quantity), according to which thirteen cards of a suit break up around the table into smaller suits of various lengths. All low-card tricks arise from differences in lengths (mass). This

Rev. and Mrs. Moore Honored at Tea.

Mrs. Pierre Gaillard, president of the woman's auxiliary of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and Mrs. Arthur Tufts, vice president, entertained at a tea yesterday at Woodland, the home of Mrs. Tufts at Emory University, in honor of Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of St. Luke's, and Mrs. Walker. Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames Robert Pringle, O. H. Matthews, H. F. West, Porter Langston, William Wilcox, Willis Callaway, Edgar Neely, D. H. Dockstader, Herbert Alden, Walter Downing, N. R. Hurt, Robert Graham and E. E. Dallas, president of the woman's guild of the church.

Members of the auxiliary were invited to meet the honor guests and the lace-covered table in the dining room was adorned with yellow dahlias and marigolds. Mrs. William Wilcox poured tea from the silver service placed at one end of the table. The tea was preceded by a business session wherein it was decided to divide the auxiliary into circles, and name each circle for a saint, the names being chosen at the meeting. Mrs. Sam Evans made a talk on "Women Saints."

Debutantes Meet At Driving Club

Miss Ida Nevin, president, presided at the short business meeting of the 1931-32 Debutante Club held yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club. Reports were made on tickets sold for the debutante fashion show which will be staged Friday evening, November 13, at Palais Peachtree with clothes furnished by J. P. Allen Company. A dance will follow the show with admittance by the same tickets. Reports were also made on the advertisements which have been secured to be used in the program for the show.

It was announced that the debutantes will be expected to be present at the Driving Club at 9:15 o'clock the evening of the Halloween ball, Friday, October 30, in order that photographs may be made before the grand march. The next meeting of the club will take place at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, October 26, at the Driving Club.

Speech Arts Club.

YOU CANNOT HAVE BEAUTY AND A NEGLECTED FIGURE

It's so easy to pick them out—those women who try to improve their appearance... but forget their figure. Don't you make their serious mistake. True feminine beauty is impossible without, first, a figure of graceful proportions. And a graceful figure is impossible without a foundation garment that properly meets the individual requirements. Therein lies the great superiority of CHARIS. With its patented adjustable design, you can correct your figure wherever and exactly as needed. Examine CHARIS leisurely in your home. Just phone the address below and an authorized representative will call whenever convenient to you.

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure. This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat. Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on butter, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat only fruit for dessert. That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight. If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store. *Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.—(adv.)

Made specially for BABIES and CHILDREN

Physicians tell us that one condition is nearly always present when a child has a digestive upset, a starting cold or other little ailment. Constipation.

When little bowels get clogged, body wastes accumulate, and poisons and infection find a fertile breeding place.

The first step towards relief is to rid the body of impure wastes. And for this nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria!

Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. This means it is mild and gentle enough for their delicate organs. Yet it is always effective.

And of course it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

You never have to coax children to take Castoria. They like its taste! The genuine Castoria, you know, always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

Junior Woman's Club in Gastonia, N. C., Sponsors Fall Cotton Fashion Show

Gastonia, N. C., is continuing the excellent work begun there last spring in the promotion of the "wear cotton campaign." On October 23 at Memorial hall at 8 p. m. the Junior Woman's Club will sponsor a harvest festival which will consist of a fall cotton fashion show presented by the Cotton Textile Institute of New York, and a brilliant dance to follow.

The only address to be delivered will be given by J. H. Separk, of Gastonia, a member of the board of directors of the Cotton Textile Institute of the south.

In the special program which has been arranged for the Junior Woman's Club of the Cotton Textile Institute of the south, the new cotton fashions for fall and winter will be shown, including sports clothes, daytime dresses, evening gowns and frocks. There will be school and Sunday frocks for elementary and high school girls, and school and play suits for younger brothers and sisters.

The collection features the new cotton dress effects in diagonal chevrons and nubby weaves, prints, printed meshes, corduroy, velvet, net, lace and novelty weaves. The exhibit includes a collection of gifts appropriate for Christmas and a group of fabrics especially designed for interior decoration.

Prominent young society women of Gastonia will act as mannequins, illustrating with what chic and charm the 40 models to be shown by the Cotton Textile Institute can be worn.

A small admission will be charged, which will include both the fashion show and the dance, the proceeds from this to be used by the Junior Woman's Club in its welfare and charity program.

A reception will be given by members of the Georgia Tech Women's Club at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, honoring the professors and their wives.

Miss Evelyn and Margaret Cowan will entertain at a bridge party this evening at 8 o'clock at their home on West Hill street in Decatur, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Hamilton and Fred Richard Snook.

Golden Rod Division No. 43, L. A. to O. R. C., will sponsor a benefit bridge party to be given at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Shrine mosque.

The marriage of Miss Mary Neel Felder and Albert Sidney Gower takes place this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Felder, on Amsterdam avenue.

Adult department of Grant Park Baptist Sunday school gives a social in the basement of the church this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Tuesday luncheon of the Ladies' Auxiliary of K. of C. will be held at 1200 Peachtree street.

Oglethorpe Board Meets October 27.

Fall meeting of the woman's board of Oglethorpe University will be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 27, at the Piedmont Driving Club. This will be a particularly interesting meeting, as the subject for the afternoon, "The Use of Radio in Education," is just now claiming the attention of all those concerned with modern pedagogics.

Prior to the general board meeting, the executive committee will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the Georgian room, with Mrs. John K. Otley, chairman, presiding. Both sessions will be followed by an informal tea, at which Mrs. Haynes McFadden, president of the woman's board, will be the hostess.

Following a custom long prevalent at the first meeting of the woman's board, the members are requested to bring any books for which they have no further use to the library chairman, Mrs. T. Clifton Perkins, as a gift from the woman's board to the university.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves the third of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of cressote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Symposium Club Members Honored At Dinner by Robert C. Alston

Robert C. Alston was host at a dinner given to members of the Symposium Club last evening at Woodville, his home on Andrews drive. The lace-covered table was adorned with jade green pottery, a gracefully shaped bowl holding Mexican lupins forming the central decoration. The shade of yellow was brought out in the candles and mints as well as in the flowers, and cards ornamented with the guests' place names marked the guests' places.

Covers were placed for Judge Price Gilbert, Robert L. Foreman, Samuel N. Evans, Dr. H. W. Cox, Walter G. Cooper, Linton C. Hopkins, Dr. Theodore H. Jack, W. Cole Jones, Robert R. Troutman, Philip H. Alston, Dr. John Moore Walker, Dean Raimundo De Ories, Sanders McDaniel, E. W. Moise, Henry C. Peeples, Dr. Stewart Roberts and Mrs. Alston.

An entertaining paper was read by Dean De Ories after dinner; the subject, "A Study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar," being treated in a highly intellectual manner by this scholarly member of the Symposium Club.

Fine Arts Club To Present Artists

The Arts Club will present John Frederick Lisselt and Henry Harris in a musical program at an open meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon, October 21, at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mr. Lisselt will speak on "Rebels: Modern Tendencies in Music," and Mr. Harris will collaborate with Mr. Lisselt. The following program which is relatively and illustrative of the subject of the lecture, will be presented: Prelude and fugue in G minor, J. S. Bach; Rondo on the Lost Partridge, Beethoven; Polonaise in A Flat major, Chopin; Etude in F minor, Liszt; Intermezzo in C major, Brahms; two nocturnes, Poulenc; Vienna dance, Friedman.

John Frederick Lisselt and Henry Harris have been associated together for a number of years as master and pupil and as lecturer and pianist on the lecture platform. They studied under the same master in Leipzig and both have spent several years in Europe attending the great musical festivals and being under famous teachers. Mr. Lisselt is a critic of innumerable performances of music and possesses a clear understanding of the essential values of music. Mr. Harris is an artist in his own right, a brilliant concert pianist. He has won enthusiastic applause in Europe and America, both in recital and as a soloist with orchestra.

Members of the Fine Arts Club may obtain cards from the secretary at the door, or send a check to the treasurer, Mrs. Victor Lamar Smith, 1330 Piedmont avenue, N. E., before October 21. Guest cards may be obtained from Mrs. M. Hines Roberts, 1288 Piedmont avenue, N. E., Hemlock 7311, at the usual price of $1.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves the third of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of cressote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Symposium Club Members Honored At Dinner by Robert C. Alston

Robert C. Alston was host at a dinner given to members of the Symposium Club last evening at Woodville, his home on Andrews drive. The lace-covered table was adorned with jade green pottery, a gracefully shaped bowl holding Mexican lupins forming the central decoration. The shade of yellow was brought out in the candles and mints as well as in the flowers, and cards ornamented with the guests' place names marked the guests' places.

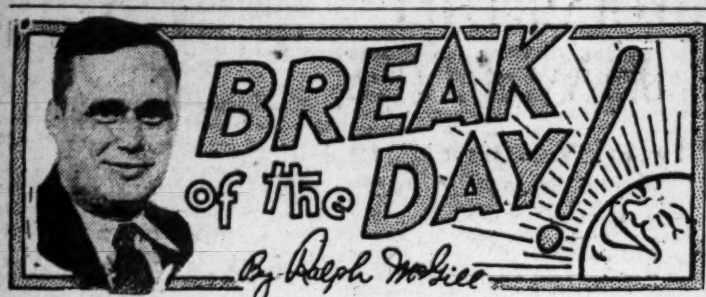

Covers were placed for Judge Price Gilbert, Robert L. Foreman, Samuel N. Evans, Dr. H. W. Cox, Walter G. Cooper, Linton C. Hopkins, Dr. Theodore H. Jack, W. Cole Jones, Robert R. Troutman, Philip H. Alston, Dr. John Moore Walker, Dean Raimundo De Ories, Sanders McDaniel, E. W. Moise, Henry C. Peeples, Dr. Stewart Roberts and Mrs. Alston.

An entertaining paper was read by Dean De Ories after dinner; the subject, "A Study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar," being treated in a highly intellectual manner by this scholarly member of the Symposium Club.

Leonard Is Expected To Face Bulldogs; Maddox Believed Lost; Coach Alexander Cuts Down on Scrimmage at Georgia Tech

Now it can be told—how Ted Twomey almost nailed Albie Booth when that youngster got away for about 80 yards in the Georgia-Yale game at New Haven.

Twomey tells it on himself, and the action picture which Charley Martin received at the faculty chairman's office confirms it.

Booth went in at New Haven just after Georgia had scored a touchdown. He took the kick-off and raced down the field, fairly close to the sideline, where the Georgia bench was, for about 80 yards.

Ted Twomey, who hasn't been out long enough to forget that he isn't a player, was caught up by the scene. Without knowing it, he left his place on the bench and went crouching to the sideline. His face was set, and he was about to lunge out on the field and tackle Booth when it came to him in a flash—"Gosh, I'm only a coach."

He slipped back to his seat, and the action picture shows him crouching on the line. Albie will never know how near he came to being murdered by a swift tackle from Ted Twomey's giant bulk.

Such a thing as a man on the bench leaving to tackle a player took place in a game a few years ago. A sub on the bench threw off his blanket and tackled a player who was free and running to a touchdown.

It would have caused no end of horrified amazement had Twomey tackled Booth—but what a story it would have been!

A BATCHELOR'S AMBITION.

Graham Batchelor, who is playing a very respectable game of center for the University of Georgia football team, is reported as harboring ambitions to enter the heavyweight boxing field when he has completed his B. A. business at the university.

Batchelor is a good boxer. He will be a strong contender for the heavyweight college championship in the south this winter when the trials are held at Charlottesville.

It will be interesting to follow his career when he gets out of college. It will probably be better for him if he forgets all about it, the fight racket being what it is, but there's a great future in it for one who has the ability to get to the top quickly without taking any great amount of early pounding.

The great heavyweights all got to the top in a hurry. They have to. The boys who fight for years usually end up with the fighter's dance and little to show for the poundings they have taken.

College men have never done very well in the ring. There was just one whom the experts thought might get there. That was Al Lassman, the great New York University tackle of four years ago. A football injury prevented him from going on. He died a hero's death saving some youngsters from drowning because his old injuries would not permit him to save himself.

Solly Montgomery, the one-time Centre College star; Monte and Wayne Munn, of Nebraska; Duke Slaton, the Iowa tackle; Bill Middlekauff, of Florida; Tiny Roebuck, of Haskell, and dozens of other college men tried the fight game and got nowhere. A few made successes as wrestlers.

The fight managers, with a few exceptions, push their men into fight after fight, seeking to grab as much as they can as quickly as they can. The fight business is in the hands of a pretty poor lot with a good fellow to be spotted here and there.

It would be interesting, nevertheless, to see what a young fellow could do, even if one does entertain hopes that he keeps out of it.

"THE BEST," SAYS MORT STAROBIN.

Mort Starobin, the New York University line coach, was asked by Jimmy Jones, of The Constitution, to wire back his impression of the Georgia team after he reached New York following the Carolina game at Chapel Hill.

The wire came along this afternoon. It was terse and to the point—"The Greatest Team I Ever Saw."

This may be part of a build-up, but there is no doubt but what New York is considerably worried about the Bulldogs from Athens.

Starobin gave Jones a fine interview which was published Monday morning. In it Starobin gave some opinions of individuals and their play. Jones' request was for an opinion after he had thought over the game and read his notes.

Georgia may be touched with destiny this season. Of the fickle fates may lead them to the mountain top for a view of the promised land—only to dash them down. Harry Mehre knows this. The road leads past Vanderbilt, Tulane, New York University and Southern California.

It is a great football team—not a "Dream and Wonder Team," not a "Team of a Thousand Backs" or anything like that. But it is a good, workmanlike eleven with some brilliant players on it.

It would not be at all surprising were it to turn out to be the greatest team of the year.

TULANE ALMOST ALL-SOUTHERN.

Tulane's football squad is almost entirely a home product. One will find no importations from any other section of the country on the list except in one position. Quarterback Dawson came down from River Falls, Wis., to get his education at Tulane.

The others are all from Louisiana or from adjoining states. Of the eleven men who started Saturday against Vanderbilt, six were from the state of Louisiana, two were from Arkansas and two from Mississippi.

Felts, the "old married man," who entered the game with a fever and wrecked the supposedly strong Commodore line, is from Mississippi.

Time was when the better southern football players came from Georgia, Tennessee and Arkansas. Now Louisiana is coming to the front with a rush. The boys with the French names seem to take to the game as well as those with the Irish and Teutonic names. No one can accuse the Green Wave of going far for material.

LEONARD LIKELY TO LEAD MATES; MADDOX IS LOST

Examination Indicates Jack Roberts Will Be Able To Play.

By Freddie Russell.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 19.—While Vanderbilt's varsity tried to remove the green stain of Tulane's victory with a day of rest Monday, the third team hastily rigged up some Georgia plays, and threw them at the No. 2 eleven in a short scrimmage.

Powell and McNevin, linemen, and Surheim, a stocky back, received special attention from Coach Colman Hardage with an eye to using them during a large part of the Bulldog battle.

The varsity came out of the Tulane game badly bruised and battered. The most serious casualty is Mighty Close, signal caller and blocking back, who lobbied with a badly injured knee. It is most doubtful if he will play Saturday.

Captain Mouse Leonard, absent from the Ohio State and Tulane games with a broken wrist, seems sufficiently repaired to get back in there, and it would not be surprising to see him directing the team against Georgia, with Dixie Roberts taking Close's place as front back. In addition to being an excellent ball-carrier, Roberts can block with the best of them.

Vanderbilt's punting, the worst in years Saturday, is in for a lot of polishing this week. Monday Coach McGuffin had Burton Shackelford, a reserve end, out early practicing on kicking the oval correctly. Henderson and Roberts did the kicking against Tulane.

The Commodore squad, including some 30 players, will leave here Thursday night, and spend Friday in Madison, Ga., the home of Julian Foster, varsity end. They will continue to Athens Friday night.

Bulldogs Start With Light Drill.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 19.—Somewhat weary after three hard football games and 3,000 miles on the rails, Georgia's Bulldogs began their training for the Vanderbilt battle with an extremely light workout today.

That apparently overwhelming victory the Bulldogs brought back from North Carolina was a mite harder than the score indicates, judging by the team's lethargic workout today. It was just a preliminary wind sprint, however. The real work will begin Tuesday, the boys will be ready with the oil pepper and dash by then, it is hoped.

Real football weather was the unusual item in the conditions today. Until last week workouts were held under a nice warm sun, with no cold wind to worry about. Today there wasn't any sun, and the wind whipped through the stadium in a playful mood, which means that Old Man Winter is just about to check in for the year.

With one star definitely out of the game and another still holding up, there is wonder that Mehre is not the most cheerful man in the world right now? Red Maddox won't play against Vanderbilt Saturday, was the word that went out today. Red, for three years one of the most brilliant guards in the south, wasn't even in uniform today. He did hobble down to the field, which all goes to show what a great thing habit is.

Jack Roberts hobbled around in uniform. An X-ray examination of his injured heel showed no broken bones, and he is expected to be ready by Saturday.

Coach Mehre thinks a lot of that Vanderbilt football team. Most football coaches have a habit of talking about how good the opposition is, especially the Saturday before they play 'em, but Mehre is quite sure about these Tennessee boys. Captain "Mouse" Leonard, Mehre thinks, is one great back. Captain Leonard is one great back, ready to play football, after recovering from a troublesome injury. Mehre is telling his boys to watch this Leonard chap.

Catfish Smith, Austin Downes and Sully Sullivan remained behind after practice to kick a few punts, and on special orders. Evidently, Mehre hasn't forgotten 1926, when the McGuffin-coached eleven beat Georgia, 14-13, the simple margin of one point after a touchdown.

A light scrimmage will come for the second team Tuesday. Heavy scrimmages are slated for Wednesday and Thursday. Georgia stays at home this week-end, which may have a bad effect on the boys. They will feel strange, playing a football game without first spending the night on a Pullman.

Mrs. Clower Low In Women's Meet

Mrs. C. C. Clower was medalist Monday on the Ansley Park course in the qualifying rounds for the Ansley Park Club women's championship. She carried a 96.

First round matches will be played this morning and play will continue during the remainder of the week.

In the first round today, Mrs. Clower plays Mrs. L. Willett. The tournament is being sponsored by Tommy Wilson, club professional.

The pairings:

Championship Flight.

Mrs. C. C. Clower vs. Mrs. L. Willett; Mrs. E. W. Everett vs. Mrs. C. C. Williamson; Mrs. J. O. Wright vs. Mrs. Herbert Quillian; Mrs. R. N. R. Bardwell vs. Mrs. J. C. Welch.

Second Flight.

Mrs. R. G. Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Stewart vs. Mrs. Frank Sampson.

Around the Top.

Now is as good a time as any to start assembling those football groups that belong at the top of each football sector. Most of them may stay up there only a week or so, but it is something to be up there that long.

In the east Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, New York University and Pittsburgh have yet to be tied or beaten after somewhat thorough tests and, what is more to the point, they have the stuff to go a long way. It was thought that Cornell had one of her best time teams, one of the best in many years, and now Princeton will testify to this same statement and back it up with affidavits.

Army's strong team belongs in this group also when full strength returns later on.

There is no longer any doubt about Notre Dame's place. Stopping this four-team avalanche will be a problem for every rival from now on. Hunk Anderson was frank enough to admit that he was completely satisfied with the strength of his team in every department, and Ossie Solem, Drake's coach and a good one, says this Notre Dame array is not only stronger than the 1930 team, but the strongest he ever saw.

Three Leaders.

Facing another Saturday, the south now has three leaders who are well in front of the pack. They are Georgia, Tulane and Tennessee, with Auburn not so far away.

Georgia, Tulane and Tennessee have turned in the most impressive records of the year. Tulane, for example, ran up 10 points against the Vanderbilt team that beat Ohio State. Tennessee ran away from a strong Alabama delegation with a fast, smashing attack led by Gen. McEver, one of the best backs in football.

Here were two games supposed to be extremely close, but when the final returns blew in there was no argument left as to where the winning strength belonged.

There are still more than a dozen strong, untested teams left in the top group, but the road gets rougher each week as accidents and injuries pile up and the strain gets harder.

Offside Plays.

The Western conference has been all churned up with October on a stride past the mid-route. Michigan and Purdue, rated among the leaders, have already fallen. Northwestern still sticks at the top as far as all-around strength is concerned, and will probably stay there.

Lou Little and his Columbia squad put over the big surprise of the year last fall in beating Cornell. The same combination went a step further last Saturday in not only beating but outplaying a strong Dartmouth team by a wide margin. Who knows Dartmouth is strong? Well, any team that can beat Holy Cross has to have more than a prayer and a pass.

It will be a long time before any one will see a quarterback turn in as much great football as Harry Wood showed against the Army.

U. S. C. and Stanford are moving toward their annual clash with increasing power each week. One of the big tests will be Moffatt against Mohler, two backs that rate with the best in coast history—at least in the history of recent years. But in the meanwhile St. Marys goes along her unbeaten way.

The best way to start a verbal war in the New Orleans sector is to name two football players who may be better than Zimmerman and Dalrymple of Tulane.

Unless the signs change in a hurry, the battle between Georgia and N. Y. U. on November 7 will be as important in a ranking way as any game played this fall. And it will be played between two of the year's best teams.

Hunk Anderson had only 57 plays ready for his last game, but the season is still young. The big demand is to be that football should be for the mass, not for a few individual stars. All that is needed is to give many it takes to make a mass. He'll give them to you.

Any coach who has Jack Crickard of Harvard around will rarely look farther. He is of that big, fast, hard-running type who can operate at top speed all afternoon without tiring an extra breath. The harder they hit him, the harder he runs at the next start.

Northwestern's big test will come on Saturday against Ohio State at Columbus. Ohio has found the quarterback it was looking for in Cramer and not even a team as strong as the Evanston Wildcats will be anything but safe when this game starts.

Yale started back and it remains to be seen this week against the Army how far the return journey lasts. Any team that can beat this Army round-up has something to offer.

GEORGIA-TULANE GO MAY DECIDE GRIDIRON RACE

Tennessee-Vandy Clash Same Day To Have Vital Bearing.

By Dillon Graham,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

If the Southern conference football favorites, Tulane, Tennessee and Georgia, successfully handle their assignments this week, as they are expected to, the conference championship probably will remain in doubt until November 14.

Vanderbilt could clear the picture somewhat by defeating Georgia at Athens Saturday, but the Bulldogs figure too strong for the already-beaten Commodores. Tennessee and Tulane anticipate little trouble from North Carolina and Georgia Tech, respectively.

For the next fortnight, the choice squads have easy sailing within the circuit. Tennessee appears too formidable for Duke, and the Volunteers reserves can handle little Carson-Newman. Tulane plays Mississippi A. & M. and Auburn, and figures to win both, although the rejuvenated Tigers from Alabama's plains may make the Greensies step.

VIOLETS STRONG.

Georgia faces a weakened Florida team and then goes north to play New York University. Chick Meacham's Violets, one of the best teams in the east, may halt Georgia's bid for national honors, but a defeat there would not stain the southerner's conference slate.

From this distance, the Georgia-Tulane contest at Athens November 14 stands out as probably the season's classic. Last year a fine Georgia eleven was humbled, 25-0, by Tulane at New Orleans. Georgia, notwithstanding its known efforts to win the inter-sectional games with Yale and New York University, is admittedly pointing for Tulane more than for any other conference opponent.

Tennessee also meets its strongest remaining opponent on this day, Vanderbilt at Knoxville. Tennessee won, 13-0, in 1930, and appears stronger than Vanderbilt again this season.

LAST ASSIGNMENTS.

Following these games Tulane still has to eliminate its traditional rival, Louisiana State, while Tennessee must turn back a fine Kentucky eleven. However, both Tulane and Tennessee will rule as favorites to win these contests.

Except for its annual contest with Georgia Tech, which always finds both teams playing their best games of the year, Georgia does not have another serious conference opponent. If Georgia or Tulane should continue victorious throughout their schedule until December, they still have two strong inter-sectional foes to overcome in their marches toward national honors. Tulane plays Washington State in New Orleans December 5, and Georgia goes to the Pacific coast to play Southern California on December 12.

Canzoneri Signs To Fight Chocolate

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—For the third time since he won the lightweight boxing championship from Al Singer nearly a year ago, Tony Canzoneri will take his title into the ring, meeting Kid Chocolate in Madison Square Garden, November 20.

Jimmy Johnston, making his debut as director of the Garden's boxing affairs, closed negotiations for a 15-round match between the two boxers today. Contracts will be signed Thursday.

The match, considered for some time as a "natural," brings together two of the most popular fighters in the game. The lightweight crown will be the chief prize at stake, but three titles will be taken into the ring. In addition to being the lightweight champion, Canzoneri also holds the synthetic junior welterweight title, Chocolate is the junior lightweight titleholder, having won the crown from Benny Bass in July.

Since knocking Singer out in the first round of their championship fight last November, Canzoneri has met and successfully defended his title twice against Jackie "Kid" Berg. He may attempt to make 150 pounds in his fight with Chocolate so that all three titles will be at stake.

Navy End Coach Suffers Attack

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Johnny O'Brien, coach of ends of the navy football team, will not be able to attend to his duties for several days as a result of a sudden attack of appendicitis. Herby Cortez, Edgar Miller spent the entire practice session today in a lecture session with his first and second teams. Miller was impressed by the showing of Princeton Saturday and predicted that the Navy and Princeton will meet on practically even terms. Kien may be used in part of the game Saturday, according to Miller.

These Boys Are Tough But Must Have Togs

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Inmates of the New Hampshire state prison may be used to hard knocks, but when it comes to being knocked out on a football field—well, they would like a little protective equipment.

A year ago, football was adopted at the prison as a form of recreation. This year interest in the game has increased greatly. Simultaneously the bruises, barked shins and headaches have increased, all because of the lack of equipment.

The prison teams boast of two footballs and two hip pads. One of the balls was purchased with funds raised by the prisoners in the prison chair factory. There are not sufficient funds to purchase uniforms, so Warden Charles B. Clarke has issued an appeal for tugs discarded by football players in schools and colleges.

Kelly Proves Real Find

Weddington Kelly, the miniature end who is filling Herb Maffett's shoes at end for Georgia, is playing better ball with every game, according to Coach Harry Mehre. Kelly is light but he is a deadly tackler and a good diagnostician of plays. He has taken away much of the worry that coaches had about the end play.

End Men in Georgia's 'Show' Good--Different

"Catfish" Smith Is "Hunch" Player While Kelley Is Team's "Straight Man."

By Jimmy Jones.

In our now obsolete minstrelsy, an end man was supposed to make people laugh (at least, some of the people). He didn't always do so, and maybe that's why minstrelsy is obsolete. In football, it is necessary only that the end man keep his coach smiling, although in some cases ends have been known to make coaches break down and weep. A football end is not always funny—particularly when a tackler jams his nose in the dirt or an elusive punt returner leaves him standing like a lamp post.

In our game of football, however, as in minstrelsy, there usually is a "straight man" who does only what he is supposed to do. He carries his part perfectly while a more spectacular performer steals the show.

One finds himself reminded of such a comparison in watching the work of Georgia's two fine flankmen—Vernon (Catfish) Smith, the left end, and Weddington Kelly, the right end. There is a striking difference between the two but both are very effective.

Catfish Smith, big, tall and rangy, is an Arnold Rottstein on the field. He'll gamble on a play and when he's right, he cleans up. Most of the time Catfish

JACKET MENTOR DECIDES SQUAD HAS HAD ENOUGH

Will Stand Pat on Lineup Against Tulane; Ferguson May Be Regular.

By Jimmy Jones.

Back in the early days of September when open season on oysters and football began and no one dreamed of blankets and overcoats, William A. Alexander found himself confronted by a big squad of average looking material out at Georgia Tech. The boys were hard workers and eager to learn but there was very little natural ability in the layout.

There was but one thing to do and Alexander did it. He knew that the only way those boys could be whipped into a team would be by hard and constant bodily contact in the scrimmages.

For seven weeks the Tech players were put through the mill. Now Alexander has learned exactly what can be expected of them and what is the best combination to put them into a game. So from now on, he is going to cut down on the scrimmages. There will be no rough work between now and the Tulane game and very little of the rest of the season.

HAVE HAD ENOUGH.

The Jackets have absorbed enough fundamentals in the scrimmages to give Alexander and his aides a chance now to polish up the offense a bit. The Carnegie Tech game apparently took a lot out of Tech. There was a slight tendency to staleness in the attack, and the defense which Alexander thinks showed even more than the Skibos from a standpoint of all-around play.

The pat on the team he used to use in part against Auburn. He will continue Captain Howard Neblett at center, Eddie Laws and Tom Jones at guards, Bob Tharpe and either Clingan or Ezzell at tackles and Williams and Sloum at ends.

PEELER AT QUARTER.

Tommy Peeler will run the first team at quarter against Tulane with Jay Hart at one half and Ben Cherry at fullback.

Johnny Ferguson, the Albany boy, very likely will be moved up to the other halfback berth on account of his fine punting ability. Ferguson is the nearest approach to a combined running and kicking back among the sophomores and in the Auburn game he showed real defensive ability, tackling hard when he got the chance. Ferguson is light and not a very strong blocker but he is fast and his punting is the best on the Tech squad right now.

Coach Alex had to alter his plans on Ferguson a bit. He figured at the start that he wouldn't be ripe this year and counted on some of the other sophomores as regular backs. But Ferguson came forward faster than any of them and his gifted toe gave him an added advantage. Black and Galloway have shown flashes of real promise but they need a little more time yet.

FIGURED AHEAD.

The Jacket coach figured in advance that his backs wouldn't gain much ground in the early part of the season. There was too much experimenting necessary and too much unproven ability to show. He was right on the offense right at the start. The Tech line, also, in addition to being green, is lighter than the average conference line.

Laws, Jones and Lackey are the only men up to the weight standard but they are not over the average.

As proof of the slow development in Tech's offense, the Jackets have made only 11 first downs in the last two games, three against Auburn and eight against Carnegie Tech.

The Jacket blocking was poor in the Auburn game, but Coach Alexander thought the pass defense of his team was greatly improved. Although outplayed, Tech might have had a chance against Auburn if its rushing attack had reached any degree of effectiveness.

PRaises AUBURN.

Yesterday Coach Alex saw fit to bestow some real compliments on the team Chet Wynne has developed. He thinks that Auburn is a real team. Porter Grant very exceptional player.

"Auburn showed me by tying Wisconsin that she had a real team and this was greatly improved. Although by Wisconsin's decision to play Purdue, who was a Big Ten favorite before the season started," Coach Alexander declared.

Chet Wynne was able to get a quick line on his team because he had some veteran help from last year in both line and backfield and added a real passing threat in Fippo Phillips.

The Jackets entrain Friday at 6 p. m. for New Orleans and the game with Tulane. Coach Alexander is one of those who believes the Greensies

Oh, Look! Harvard May Quit Winner!

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Harvard Crimson, undefeated in its newspaper football schedule, today advocated the elimination of the Army game from the Harvard football schedule. Harvard won from Army at West Point on Saturday, 14-13.

The Crimson's editorial advanced two reasons for recommending the dropping of the Army game. The first was an alleged lack of common interests between the two institutions. The second was the military academy's eligibility rule under which a Cadet may not not only play four years on the Army team, but may have played college football for several years before entering the service school.

Bulldogs, Wave and Vols Among Nation's Finest Teams--McGugin

MEYER FINEST RUNNING BACK IN VOL HISTORY

Tulane Played Almost Perfect Game Against Vandy, Says Coach.

By Dan E. McGugin, Football Coach, Vanderbilt University.

Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by South American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 19.—Vanderbilt and Alabama left the list of undefeated conference teams Saturday, and both were defeated by surprisingly large scores.

Tennessee has a splendid veteran line and first class ends. Brilliant as Dodd, Hackman and others were, I consider McEver Tennessee's finest all-time running back. He is supported by an ample number of strong, fast backs, both veteran and sophomore.

That Tulane is one of the country's outstanding teams, I now cheerfully concede. On Saturday she played one of the greatest games I have witnessed in my 25 years of observation. She has a powerful, fast-charging line and great ends. Haynes being particularly effective against Vanderbilt.

BRILLIANT BACKS. In Zimmerman, Feltz, Payne and others, she has rangy, powerful backs of great speed, brilliant in punting and passing, both offensively and defensively. Clean handling of the ball, power, speed and deception in attack and practically perfect signal calling are some of the things we saw in Tulane.

To have a successful season these days, a squad must have at least 22 first-class men. This has been a fundamental factor in Notre Dame's success. Georgia used two full teams against Yale, and Tulane and Tennessee 20 and 28 men, respectively, Saturday.

Florida, with green material, is much below her usual strength and lost to Syracuse, but managed to score two touchdowns.

Until Saturday, Tennessee, Tulane, Georgia, Vanderbilt and Alabama were new out of the list. Vanderbilt made some vital mistakes, and no doubt Alabama did. In football games you can't avoid the consequences, when opponents are practically perfect.

WELCOMED, AUBURN! Auburn, held lightly at the beginning, now fully merits being placed with the Big Four undefeated teams. A defeat these days by no means cracks a season. Men of character will get up and fight again.

Maryland, conqueror of the Navy and Kentucky, both great teams, played to a standstill. Duke was tied by Davidson, and great as Wallace Wade is, like other good coaches, he must have material.

Systems of play, details of position and defensive structures are well understood by all coaches of intelligence these days. Nobody can be held lightly.

Georgia scored at will against North Carolina, though North Carolina may have gone back some, due to hard games and courageous enforcement of discipline. Sewanee, more power to her, defeated the strong Chattanooga team.

In my judgment, in no other section of the country are there three teams as good as Georgia, Tennessee and Tulane.

The Harvard-Army game, one of the most melodramatic of the season to date, was a great demonstration for those who hold that intellect plays a prominent part in intercollegiate football. It was Barry Wood, Phi Beta Kappa man, who saved the game for Harvard when it seemed irretrievably lost.

As a matter of cold fact, however, Mr. Wood did not save the game with his head. He saved it with his feet; but possibly it may be that some of Mr. Wood's brains are in his feet. If so, he has a pair of the most intelligent and swiftest dogs in the world.

It happened in the third period. Cadet Johnson, of the Army, broke loose from well into Harvard territory and started toward the Army goal line. He was bounding like a golden horned antelope. He swept aside the last Army back and there was a clear field between him and the touchdown that would bring victory to the Cadets.

Wood, who left his Phi Beta Kappa key with his civilian clothes, came from nowhere and started in pursuit. Inch by inch the Crimson captain crept up on the fleeing Army back. For a moment it seemed that Johnson was standing still. Then Wood plunged forward and dragged him down with the Army goal line almost within a few bounds.

After that, in the fourth period, Wood intercepted a pass from the Army just as the Cadets were surging forward in a charge that promised to make another touchdown. Getting the ball he ran about 50 yards into Army territory. Intellect certainly does count in football when some of it is in the feet.

Between the halves the Harvard band paraded the field and played "Benny Havens" in dead march time. This song, which is a drinking song, is the tune of "The Wearing of the Green." Naturally, it is supposed to be a rollicking tune, but the Harvard band, being used to tearful alma mater songs, had to render it that way.

I remember when they played it at Cambridge on the occasion of Army's last visit they made quite a hit with some of the Irish Boston commoners. The boys thought that they were playing "The Wearing of the Green" and there was much favorable comment passed concerning Harvard until the truth leaked out.

In fact, I heard one of the Irish policemen stationed at the Harvard stadium remark: "It is very nice of the Harvard boys to play a tune for the Boston police department."

Rival Bands Have Battle of Own.

Following the complimentary playing by the Harvard band the regular Army band struck up "Fair Harvard." Evidently the leader of the Army band was determined that no collegians could outman his musicians for "Fair Harvard" came out like a dirge.

Major General Smith, superintendent of West Point, listened rather grimly to "Benny Havens." General Smith recalls that after all Benny Havens was a mere bartender. West Point, now, is the most important of the United States, the general does not think that the song is quite appropriate.

By the end of the second half the Harvard contingent had recovered its wind and started to shout because the Crimson rosters had something to shout about. Michie stadium, where the cadets play football, is about as high up in the clouds as Lookout mountain. The Cadets and the Army people were used to it, but it was tough on the civilians. Nothing could be heard as the crowd tilted toward the stadium but the moaning dogs of anguish, both male and female.

In the fourth period, with the ball on the Army 14-yard line, Harvard fumbled, but it fumbled backward and lost about 20 yards. There is one thing that Mr. Casey must teach his boys, and that is—if they must fumble, fumble at the right time and in the right direction as Cadet Stecker fumbles. Otherwise, Mr. Casey seems to have his young men as well grounded in all the fundamentals as could be expected at this time of the year.

In fact, Mr. Casey's progress so far this season is eminently satisfactory. But it is my notion that the credit for this most impressive victory of Harvard is due to the Phi Beta Kappa. If Mr. Casey could get all of his men into this particular Greek letter the Harvard team would be invincible.

Mr. Stecker Thinks Rapidly.

Cadet Ray Stecker, the fleet Army back, demonstrated that he not only could move his feet with great rapidity, but that he could think at top speed while in motion. At the finish of a long end run in the first quarter Cadet Stecker was tackled by a number of the Harvard team.

When he was hit he had the ball tucked securely under one arm, but his head and shoulders were free. He was erect only three or four feet from the Harvard line and Cadet Sheridan, probably the best tackler in the country, was right on him.

MONNETT LEADS GRID SCORERS OVER COUNTRY

Michigan State Star Tops Bush, Former Leader, by One Point.

By the Associated Press.

Bob Monnett, fleet halfback of Michigan State, has taken the lead in the national football scoring race. Monnett scored 11 touchdowns and kicked 18 points after touchdown for a total of 84 points and a one-point lead over Louis Bush, 145-pound sophomore at Massachusetts State. Bush has tallied 13 touchdowns and booted 5 points after touchdowns.

The leader in each of the nation's nine major groups or conferences follows:

Player and College	td.	pts.	total
Midwest—Monnett, Mich. State	11	18	84
East—Bush, Mass. State	13	5	83
Rocky M.—Christensen, Utah	3	0	30
Southern—McEver, Tenn.	7	0	42
Southern—Mullins, Fla.	7	0	42
Me. Val.—Madden, O.	7	0	42
Southwest—Ledbetter, Ark.	4	0	24
Big Ten—McGinnis, Wis.	4	0	24
Big Ten—MacDonald, Minn.	4	0	24

McEver Now Leads Conference Backs.

By the Associated Press.

Gene McEver, Tennessee's sensational halfback who led the nation's scoring in 1929, returned to the time form in making three touchdowns against Alabama Saturday to top Southern conference scorers with 42 points.

Leon Long and Hillman Holley, the Alabama touchdown twins, and Joe Gee, Sewanee, were in a three-cornered tie for second place, each having 36 points. Long and Holley coasted on past performances, as they were held without a point by Tennessee.

McEver raised his total to 30 points, only touchdown in the Sewanee-Chattanooga game.

Nolle Feltz, Tulane, was next with 31 points. He crossed Vanderbilt's goal twice.

Homer Key, Columbus, Ga., backfield star on the University of Georgia team, scored two touchdowns against North Carolina to go one point behind Feltz. Key was tied with Dixie Roberts, Vanderbilt, at 30 points each.

Bluenose Winner In Opening Race

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 19.—(UP) Captain Angus Walters sailed the Bluenose over the finish line in today's race with the Gertrude L. The boat, barely six minutes before her time limit would have expired, to win the first race of a series to decide the championship of the north Atlantic deep-sea fishing fleets.

It was a thrilling finish as the champion, pointing high into the wind, completed a mile long track directly across the harbor to shave the breakwater, marking the line when another hitherto would have meant no race. It was a wonderful demonstration of windward work by a really fine vessel.

Bluenose officially crossed the finish line at 2:53.45, several miles ahead of the United States challenger which showed clearly the effects of extra ballast. Moderate westerly winds are forecast for tomorrow, and unless something unexpected occurs Thebaud in her present shape is conceded little chance of defeating Bluenose. Part of Thebaud's ballast was shifted last night to counteract a slight starboard list, which is permissible, but Captain Angus Walters is steadfast in his determination not to allow his boat to be taken out of proper racing trim.

MILLER KAYOES FOE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight, knocked out Solly Ritz, Brooklyn, in 40 seconds of the first round of their eight-round bout tonight. Miller weighed 136 1-2; Ritz 140.

THE ALUMNI LOBBIES.

The bone-headed alumni lobbies are at work in North Carolina and at Nashville, Tenn.-O-See. There are faint mutterings from them in Atlanta.

The most amazing thing in recent years was the indignation of North Carolina alumni at the removal of Johnny Branch because of serious infractions of training rules and refusal to obey orders.

Everyone felt sorry for Branch, of course. There was universal regret that he was dropped. Yet that some alumni should be willing to abrogate all the rules to keep a star player in the game is a revealing commentary on the ideals of the alumni lobbies which look only at the winnings.

A losing eleven isn't comfortable. It isn't even very interesting. And yet one can't always have winners. They run in cycles of about four to six years.

Tennessee and Tulane, with winning elevens for the past four years, have never won Southern championships. Tulane had dubious ties twice. Tennessee has never had even a tie.

This is not meant as any reflection on the splendid records of the two teams, but is used to illustrate the point that the real winners, such as Alabama of 1930 and Tech of 1928, are not the usual thing but the unusual.

THE WEST POINT ROUTE

PETRELS PLAY FIRMAN TEAM HERE SATURDAY

Coach Robertson Seeks To Develop Scoring Punch for Game.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe's football team is in much the same position as the boxer without a knockout punch, but while the boxer by his cleverness can manage to score enough points to win a decision, football isn't scored that way and Oglethorpe's drives that have extended beyond the opponents' five-yard line and no farther have placed the team in a very unique position—that of the south's most consistent one-touchdown losers this season.

The final touchdown punch has been absent in the four games played to date, and as the Stormy Petrels yesterday opened preparations for the Furman game here Saturday, Coach Harry Robertson cast about for any possible means of developing that vital punch.

While the varsity engaged in a general limbering drill, Coach Robertson concentrated his attention on possible first-string material as he put the second team through a long scrimmage.

Unless there is marked development among members of the second team, however, there will be no change in the lineup that started against Loyola last Friday night, Coach Robertson said yesterday.

That team includes Captain Parker Bryant and Paul Goldsmith, ends; Dan Kenzie and Dave Barrow, tackles; John Patrick and Marion Whaley, guards; Andy Morrow, center; Claud Herin, quarterback; Frank Anderson and Lefty Syper, halfbacks; and Dapper Myers, fullbacks.

Coach Dad Amis, of Furman, is the same person you will perhaps recall, earlier in the season received quite a bit of attention by his team, carried by press services, that Oglethorpe had a stronger team than Georgia because of superior strength at tackles.

Furman has a bone to pick with the Petrels Saturday. In fact, the Purple Hurricane may attempt to pick all their bones—clean.

That is because Furman was riding high with a victory over Florida's Gators last fall and then received a rude awakening in Hernando stadium. Furman is only the fourth team so far this season that seeks vengeance for a last year's setback. And the gracious Petrels have obliged in every instance.

The Oglethorpe-Furman game will be the only game played in Atlanta Saturday, and it will really feature a stirring pickup amateur game of Oglethorpe to start on the road back.

Carrollton Defeats Barnesville, 40 to 0

CARROLLTON, Ga., Oct. 19.—Carroll A. & M. defeated Georgia Industrial College of Barnesville, Ga., here this afternoon, 40-0, before a crowd of approximately 1,000 people.

The game was one of several features which were provided for the entertainment of some 200 Civilians attending the state Civitan convention here.

Carrollton A. & M. took an early lead and was never in danger of being scored upon. Robinson took the ball around his own right end early in the first quarter for Carrollton's first score and after that the issue was never in doubt. Captain Davies, Robinson, Hay, Bryant and Gray were outstanding in Carrollton's backfield, while Brown and West were invincible in the line. Duke, Kelly and Holmes starred for the visitors.

Carrollton lineup: Ford, right end; Clark, right tackle; Brown, right guard; West, center; Mullins, left guard; Lawrence, left tackle; John, left end; Davies, quarterback, and Captain Gray, right half; Robinson, left half; Bryant, fullback; Barnesville: Pedree, right end; Duke, right tackle; Goodyear, right guard; English, center; Sistrunk, left guard; R. Fleming, left tackle; Favors, left end; Kelly, quarterback; Holmes, right halfback; Howell, left halfback; Woods, fullback and captain.

Poor Old Babe Ruth, He Lives a Hard Life

Bambino Can't Do This and He Can't Do That; But Wait Just Two Years.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The Examiner in a copyrighted interview tonight quotes Babe Ruth, the home run king, as believing he is paying a heavy price for glory.

"I can't go to movies," said Ruth, who is here on a barn-storming visit. "It might affect my eyes. I haven't seen two shows in four years—and I love shows."

"I can't dance. They tell me it's bad for my legs. It's nearly five years since I waltzed. And I love to waltz."

"I can't attend a night club. They'd say I was drinking and carousing."

"I can't read a book on a train, for it's too hard on my eyes. And I spend most of my life on trains."

CAN'T EVEN GAMBLE. "I can't gamble. Not even a few dollars. And I love to roll dice, 'lay faro, cards, bet on horses—anything. But if I was seen with gamblers or in gambling houses, it would start gossip."

"I can't travel on air planes, but I'd love to. It's against the rules of my contract, of my insurance policies, of everything I'm connected with."

"I can't shake hands promiscuously. It's dangerous, and they tell me I'm making too much money to expose myself in that fashion. There's nothing I despise more than to refuse to shake hands with anyone."

NO SWIMMING. "I can't go swimming. Because I'm told I would be exposing myself to colds."

"I have a 16-cylinder automobile, but I can't speed it. If I was hurt while speeding my wages would be stopped during my convalescence."

"I can't enjoy a round of golf because I'm followed from tee to tee by persons seeking my autograph."

"Hang it all, I can't do anything. Not just yet."

"But wait. In two more years I'll be through with baseball. Then I'm going to break loose—wide open. Not for long, but for a while."

Moultrie Team Plays In Bainbridge Friday

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Oct. 19.—Coach H. O. Shealey, of the Bainbridge Bears, announced here today that arrangements were completed late Saturday night with Coach Dode Phillips, of the Moultrie Packers, for the Moultrie-Bainbridge football game to be played in Bainbridge this Friday instead of in Moultrie as originally scheduled.

A large crowd is expected in Bainbridge that day to attend the prosperity sales celebration under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Decatur county fair board will also be in full swing. The game is expected to play an important part in determining the winner of the southwest Georgia championship.

Moultrie and Bainbridge are old rivals. Ten of the past twelve games have been won by Moultrie.

SMITHIES PLAY KNOXVILLE HIGH IN TENNESSEE

Friday Game Settled. Marist-U.S.B., Decatur-Fulton Play Here.

Tech High's undefeated football team will play Knoxville City High, champions of Tennessee, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in Knoxville, it was announced Monday. Every effort was made to transfer the game here, but Knoxville refused the offers of W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High.

"We want to give our fans the best prep football and consider the Tech High game one of the strongest on our schedule," officials of Knoxville told Cheney.

Knoxville defeated Asheville High, 38 to 0, Friday afternoon. Cheney saw the game, and reported that Knoxville has one of the best prep elevens that he has seen in a long time.

"It is no wonder," he won the Tennessee championship and then claimed the southern prep title last year. A large number of the veterans plus plenty of aid from the reserves are on the squad now," he said.

With the Tech High game definitely set for Friday afternoon and night games between members of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference.

Marist plays University school at 3 o'clock at Spiller field and Fulton plays Decatur at 7:30 o'clock in the week's fixtures.

Boys' High will journey to Etowah, Tenn., to play Etowah Saturday afternoon and G. M. A., another of the Big Three, will be idle.

Emory Fraternities Split Net Matches

Darkness halted the Sigma Pi-Delta Tau Delta tennis match on Dobbs courts at Emory Monday afternoon, after each fraternity had won two matches, and the deciding match, played by Jim Manget, Sigma Pi, and Joe Horacek, Delta Tau Delta, had gone to 6-2, 4-6, 4-4.

The doubles matches were played off in smooth style, each fraternity winning one. Willie Spann and Bob Nelson, Delta Tau Delta, won the first match, defeating John Rooney and Jack Barker, Sigma Pi, 6-3, 6-2. Kenneth Counts and Rex Hutchison, Sigma Pi, won the next over Rodney Peck and Pinkey Webb, Delta Tau Delta, 6-2, 6-0.

In the first singles, Fincher McDaniels, Sigma Pi, stroked his way to a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Ed Jones, Delta Tau Delta. Charles Shannon, Delta Tau Delta, had little trouble evening the matches at two all, defeating Beverly Coleman, Sigma Pi, 6-1, 6-0. In the feature match, between Jim Manget, Sigma Pi, and Joe Horacek, Delta Tau Delta, the score stood 6-2, 4-6, 4-4, when the match was called because of darkness.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(P)—

The bond market opened irregularly today and trading dropped to an aggregate turnover of $12,751,000, the lowest for a full session for a month. Japanese Government 6 1/2s of 1954 were one of the most active and depressed issues of the whole list. Sales of these bonds exceeded $600,000 and they dropped to a new low at 90 1/2. Their closing price, 90 5/8, represented a net loss of 7 3/8 points.

An interesting feature was the fact that $150,000 of these bonds were sold with a seller's option to deliver within 30 days, which indicated probably that the bonds sold were owned at considerable distance from New York. Bankers described the selling as merely speculative.

Brazilian 6 1/2s of 1927-27 and 1927-27 lost 1 1/2 and 2 1/2 points respectively on active sales. The new announcement that the interest would be paid in scrip.

Net declines of 1 to 1 1/2 points were fairly numerous in railroad and public utility offerings. The new United States Liberty and Treasury issues were unsettled. Trading in most of them was active. The new Treasury 3s of 1935-35 closed below 50 for the first time.

OUTFLOW OF GOLD FROM U. S. HALTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(P)—The New York Federal Reserve bank reported a net loss of monetary gold from the United States today of only $82,500, the smallest since the outflow of metal started in 1929.

At the same time, it was reported in high banking quarters that the Bank of France and investors abroad had accepted the United States monetary gold stock by more than $650,000,000.

Bank Closes.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19.—(P)—The Exchange National bank here did not open for business today. A statement issued by the directors said unusual withdrawals by depositors had prompted the action.

A statement on the bank's condition September 29 said it had demand deposits of $3,939,738 and time deposits of $1,042,826 and United States government bonds of $738,830, and cash totaling $852,970.

What About COTTON

How does the suspension of the gold standard by England affect cotton sales? Is the reduction in acreage a certainty next spring? Is now the time to buy cotton?

The above questions have been answered in our special report "THE COTTON SITUATION." Also the future possibilities in contrast to the present difficulties are thoroughly outlined.

This report is of great value to persons engaged in the different branches of the cotton industry, also to investors holding securities in this field.

A number of these reports are available for free distribution to business men and investors.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(P)—Curb market shares fluctuated narrowly in the dull session since September 1.

Sales were only about 160,000 shares, or 90,000 less than the turnover for the previous full session.

The small group of copper issues in this market were generally firm, in sympathy with the uptick in the metal issues of the big board.

This reflected some improvement in foreign copper buying, and the possibility of further measures to restrict output at international producers' conference later this week.

Leading utilities showed little change, Electric Bond & Share sagged a fraction, then recovered. Brazil's debt moved up 1/2 point, apparently in short covering on announcement of Brazil's debt moratorium.

Gulf lost a point, while Standard of Indiana and International Petroleum advanced fractionally.
